Dispute over Discipline Endangers Future of PHS Sports Program

The power struggle that erupted last fall between Princeton High School football coaches and the school administration over the question of whose right it is to discipline athletes is about to break forth anew.

While the immediate issue remains player control, much more is at stake. In the opinion of football coach Richard Wood, continuation of the entire PHS interscholastic athletic program is hanging in the balance.

A report of the 16-member Special Committee on the School Sports Program — 39 pages long and in the making since January — was introduced Tuesday evening at the agenda meeting of the school board. (See page 2.) A decision on these rules for the sports program is scheduled to be made next Tuesday evening at 8 at the public meeting of the school board in the Community Park School auditorium. It seems certain that the feelings of both sides will surface with new intensity.

The report details step-by-step procedures for minor and major athletic infractions. A coach may suspend a player for five days or less without consulting the principal, but at all stages both student and coach are insured the right of appeal. No coach can expell a student from any team.

What it all boils down to, however, is that responsibility for discipline has been taken from the coaches and placed in the hands of the administration. "I don't think I can coach effectively if this is allowed to remain," says Wood.

A coach for 30 years and head coach for the past ten, Wood says that if the rule stays, he will not coach this fall. He and other coaches have labeled the procedure requiring any coach who wishes to dismiss a player from his squad to confer with the school principal "an unbearable restriction."

James Beachell, his chief assistant, nods in agreement. "I'll cut out," he said. "What's the use of coaching under conditions like these?"

Wood sees little chance at this point of any rapprochement between the coaches and administration. Both sides are pretty well entrenched. "All I want," he stated, "is for parents to be aware of the situation that exists now." He urged interested parents to attend the school board meeting and make their views known.

Later, Wood tempered his position by saying, "I would have given up in January or February if it weren't for the kids and parents. I've been around so long that I know a lot of parents. I know what I think should be done, but the kids and parents might make me change."

He reported that the three football captains — Ren Scott, Dave Cowan and Frank Caponi — were attempting to make up their own rules for the team. "The kids want to play," he said. He said that Scott hold him. "We'll make any rules you want; we just want to play."

Talking with them, it is also clear that both Wood and Beachell want very much to coach this fall.

But for Wood, whose staff has dwindled from seven to three with summer practice just around the corner, time has run out. "I've got to know where I stand before school ends," he said.

There is more than just a conflict here over rules, however. Personalities are involved. More than that, there is a basic confrontation between opposing philosophies.

On the one hand are the coaches who believe in the importance of victory and the subjugation of the individual player for the good of the team; that competition on the field is not only inescapable but desirable. They view competition as a fact of life.

On the other hand is the superintendent's belief, according to Wood, that the individual student is all-important, that the emphasis on competition must be played down, and that no rules can be set for an interscholastic sport that are different from, or inconsistent with, school and board rules.

PARK SITE SOUGHT

By Princeton Nursery School. Mrs. Sidney Blaxill of the Princeton Nursery School appeared before the Recreation Board Tuesday night and asked that the board consider granting the school about half an acre of Community Park along the south side near Leigh Avenue on which to build a new school that would ultimately house 125 children. Mrs. Blaxill, associated with the Nursery School for the past 10 years, told the board that the school currently provides day care for 40 children in a two-story stucco building on Leigh Avenue. Miss Eve Miller, director of the school since 1936, informed the board that, in addition, the school has a waiting list of 46, operates a kindergarten program for 10 in the Dorothea House and also cares for 15 OEO children.

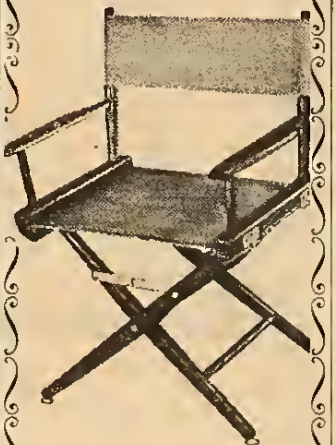

With the hope of taking care of all these children under one roof, Mrs. Blaxill reported that the school has been searching since 1968 for a suitable dwelling. "We've looked at about 40 properties, every conceivable house we could afford. We've been remarkably unsuccessful."

In such a situation, Mrs. Blaxill said the school's directors, on the advice of lawyers and architects, have been looking for land on which to build. "What we need at Princeton prices would cost $100,000," she said. "We couldn't afford it even if it were available."

Co-operation Possible. R. Donald Barr, executive director of the recreation department, told board members that by switching around one ball field that was not ideally located because it faced the sun, he felt the board could squeeze the nursery school in along a strip of land adjacent to the fields and next to the parking lot off Leigh Avenue. "We would lose one baseball field but not a softball or Little League field," he said.

Mrs. Blaxill further reported

Anonymous Tip Leads to Statue's Recovery

A muffled male voice at the other end of the telephone: "The missing piece of art they're looking for is in a University lavatory."

The brief, anonymous call came early last Wednesday afternoon to TOWN TOPICS. It was also made to the office of Allan Kornblum, Director of Security for the University.

This "missing piece of art" could only be the 2,000-year-old Roman bronze figure of a boy, valued at $25,000 and missing since it was stolen from the McCormick Art Museum on the University campus April 22 of last year.

Mr. Kornblum mobilized his men, and alerted all the custodial staff at the University.

But the voice had been muffled — had the caller said "lavatory" or "laboratory"? The security staff and janitors searched all of each.

"There are a great many lavatories and a great many labs," is Mr. Kornblum's succinct comment.

Late Thursday, a janitor found the statue in a lab — with a "b" — which Mr. Kornblum declines to identify. The search also turned up a bonus: some artifacts from various ancient civilizations, missing from collections in Guyot Hall and apparently taken about the same time as the "Bronze Boy."

All the art objects were well-cared for and in good condition, Mr. Kornblum said, adding that although the University does not yet know who took the various pieces, investigation is continuing.

Spokesmen at the art museum declined comment, saying only "It is too early to release a statement."

that the school had raised $47,000 in 1970 from 250 friends which had, with interest, grown to $55,000. The building on Leigh Avenue, she said, would be sold as a possible site for a low-income apartment dwelling. "So we have a running start on the cost of a new building."

Mr. Barr told her that any decision by the board would have to be sent in writing as a recommendation to Council and Committee, and then sent on to the site review committee. Mrs. Barbara Smoyer, Township liaison, commented, however: "Your decision is of major importance; the land is under your jurisdiction. What you decide will have a major bearing on the case." The nursery school is a non-profit organization supported by the United Fund. Fees are based on a sliding scale—set by Family Service—according to the parents' ability to pay. Some children pay nothing.

Aid for Swim Program. William Farley, coach of the Princeton Community Swim team, appeared to request a possible reduction in fee for non-residents of the program. Non residents currently pay $40 per month for the first child and $20 for every additional child. Residents pay $25 and $12.50. Of the 47 presently on the team, 19 are non-residents. Mr. Farley told the board that he is hoping to reach 60 by the end of the summer and could accommodate 100 to 120 without stress.

But, he continued, for a non-resident family of three or four swimmers the cost is $80 to $100 per month "which is pretty expensive for anyone." The fees are presenting a problem, he continued. "I don't know how critical it will be if 19 drop out but it will put a dent in the coaches' salaries," he said.

"I'm very much in favor of a differential for a non-resident; what I'm looking for is some sort of encouragement and support for team members. I'm trying to build a team that the community will be proud of."

Special Meeting Set. There will be a special meeting of the Recreation board with all interested members of the adult softball teams June 28 in Township Hall.

Council liaison Martin Lombardo who had pressed for the meeting said he saw it not as a gripe session but as a catharsis where players could air their views about the league.

The nine-team adult softball league is comprised of 177 players—74 of them non-residents of Princeton.

BOARD SETS AGENDA
With Emphasis on Sports. Princeton Regional Board of Education agreed at Tuesday's agenda meeting to give a final decision on the guidelines for school sports at this coming Tuesday's public meeting.

School athletes led by Renn Scott, tri-captain of the football team; Coach Richard Wood, former basketball coach Larry Ivans, Ted Kopp and Sanford Reynolds all spoke from the sidelines, urging a prompt decision, in view of the pressures of the school calendar. Mr. Reynolds was a member of the School Sports Program Committee whose report is up for decision.

William Bux of PREA told the board that the committee's guidelines contain four areas that may be in conflict with working conditions negotiated in the teachers' contracts.

"In other schools", young Scott commented, "the coach makes the rules. Why do our athletics have to become so complicated?"

Copies of the committee's guidelines will be available at the high school office. Board President Robert Bierman said.

The agenda also includes discussion of the recommendations of the YWCA Committee to Combat Racism. A letter signed by Mrs. Dorothy E. Katz, chairman, and Mrs. Virginia Selden, YWCA president, asks for the appointment in each elementary school of "a capable resource person" to work with each classroom and with each teacher to combat racial bias.

The board will also discuss the educational placement of handicapped children and transportation of local youth to the Blairstown camp being developed by Dean John D. Millson of Princeton University.

The progress report on sexism in the schools was deleted from the agenda, and is expected to be heard in August when the administration faculty study is completed. As plans for staff development for the 1972-73 school year are not crystallized, this item was also struck.

The board will consider an alternate library clerk secretarial proposal, and the special services child study team plan, still in negotiation with the PREA, is also included.

Budget transfers and the capital budget will be brought up, and Employee Association agreements are expected to be ratified.

Another Viewpoint of PHS Sports Problem

Sanford C. (Sandy) Reynolds has long had an active interest in sports in Princeton. Currently a member (and former chairman) of the Princeton Joint Recreation Board, it was he who provided the impetus that led to the founding of the successful Princeton Midget Football League.

He is one of four parents to serve on the Committee to Establish Sports Guidelines, whose procedures for athletic discipline have upset the football coaching staff at PHS. He has a son who was a member of the undefeated PHS sophomore football team last year. With this background, he is fully aware of the interscholastic sport situation that has been simmering at the high school.

"I've talked with each side long enough to know that the biggest problem is a lack of communication between the coaches and the administration." Saying that he agrees that the administration is not what one would call "pro sports," in a letter to Richard Wood, PHS football coach, Mr. Reynolds writes, that, nonetheless, he believes that the results of the Sports Committee's work will be beneficial in three ways: it has increased, if only slightly, communication between coaches and administration; if some of the recommendations of the Committee — a sports trainer, better facilities, creation of a permanent sports committee — are approved by the school board, the athletic program will be better; and when specific rules and punishments for each sport are made known to each participant before the onset of the season, there will be fewer violations or rules, punishments will be easier to enforce and the opportunity for questioning or overruling a coach's decision will be greatly reduced.

Mr. Reynolds concludes his detailed letter by urging, as the father of a boy active in sports, that Wood and the other coaches give serious consideration to continue coaching for at least one more year.

He says this, Mr. Reynolds writes, because he honestly believes the "situation next year can be better than you think". "Attitudes, ideas and people," he adds, "change from year to year."

Mr. Reynolds further points out how he has been impressed with the opinions of student members of the committee. "They apparently want discipline if it is sensible and equitably meted out."

Finally, he states that he will take it upon himself to see that a Father's Club will be formed — not by him — which will work closely with the permanent Sports Committee, if the latter is formed as recommended by the guideline committee.

A supportive "Fathers' Club" is something that Wood believes has been needed for some time in Princeton.

Coach Richard Wood

PHS Sports in Danger

"This just goes against everything we've been brought up to believe in," commented Beachell. Both he and Wood took verbal swipes at Superintendent Philip McPherson for insisting that competition be soft pedaled. "He's told me he doesn't care if I win a single game," said Wood.

"Something Wrong". There's something wrong with a system that says it's okay for me to continue to lose. It's not going to have the proper benefit for the kids or the school as a whole if I continue to lose. (The PHS football team lost all eight of its games last year for the first time in school history.)

The administration defends its position, said Wood, by saying it knows more about discipline than the coaches. But Wood maintains that the classroom and gridiron are two separate things.

"Football is a specialized thing the way it is taught. It's physical. It involves teamwork, organization, timing, dedication, until all the pieces knit together. The classroom is a 1-for-1 thing."

"We're hired as experts in the field. We've attended football schools taught by Lombardi on down," added Beachell. "There is a difference between athletic discipline and school discipline. If a student wants to sacrifice, to work hard to become a member of a team, he must realize the discipline must be different."

For some students, he pointed out, football and other sports — represented more than just a love for the game; it was an opportunity to earn a scholarship to college. He predicted student athletics at PHS would turn to Hun and other schools if the interscholastic program at PHS collapsed. Bill McQuade, Hun baseball coach, says he had already been approached by one player who expressed concern about the situation at PHS.

No Comment. School principal Patricia Wertheimer has declined any comment until the superintendent's own report has been made public.

Athletic Director Norman Van Arsdalen also declined to comment at this time. "It's a piled-up situation and I don't want to rile up anymore the way things are."

From a seven-man staff last year that coached four football teams — varsity, junior varsity, sophomore and freshman — only three coaches remain: Wood, Beachell and Marc Anderson. Leonard Weisler has not been rehired; Pat Dale and Frank Francisco have indicated, Wood reported, that "they have had it up to William Cirullo, the coach here with coaching at PHS," who was involved in the Wesley Hines incident last fall, which triggered the coaches-school board dispute, will not return to coaching for personal reasons. He declined to say anything more.

If Wood, Beachell and Anderson go, the chances of the placements within the school system — as it must — are remote. If they remain, they still must operate under the handicap of four new assistants with little experience to teach all four squads, including a new offense that Wood is on all winter.

Either way, PHS stands to lose. Although the varsity fail-

No Action on Sports

The school board took no action on the Report of the Special Committee on the School Sports Program at its agenda meeting Tuesday night. The board listened to comments from the audience but Superintendent Philip McPherson announced there would be no discussion until the public meeting of the board on Tuesday.

Copies of the report will be available, he said, to the public. They may be obtained at the high school office.

"It's going to be difficult to discuss it and pass on it all in one meeting," commented PHS coach Dick Wood. "If they don't make a decision on the sport guidelines by then, they might as well forget about it. It's really too late now."

Bohen Wins Easily

Drawing 50% of the vote in a three-way race, Frederick M. Bohen of Princeton was the victor Tuesday in the Democratic primary election for Congressman from the fifth district, which includes Princeton and West Windsor.

Mr. Bohen received approximately 9,000 votes, finishing far ahead of runner-up Robert C. Grant, who polled about 4,700. Trailing was Christian J. Lund with 4,300.

In addition to the large margin he received here (see below), enabling him to carry Mercer County, Mr. Bohen also won in Somerset and Essex, losing Middlesex and Morris. He will face Republican Congressman Peter B. Frelinghuysen in November.

SIGMUND, POWELL WIN McGovern, Bohen. In Borough and Township, the liberal wing of the Democratic party carried the primaries Tuesday. Sweeping victory for Senator George McGovern, for Frederick Bohen as challenger to Republican Congressman Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, for Daniel Gaby for U.S. Senate, and for Barbara Sigmund and Robert Powell for Borough Council—that's the way Princeton's Democrats wanted it.

Both Mrs. Sigmund and Mr. Powell swamped Lawrence Ivan, the third contender for the two Council seats.

Mrs. Sigmund, the only one of three candidates backed by both the Princeton Democratic Association and the Princeton Community Democratic Organization, led the ticket with 907 votes, three times as many as Mr. Ivan's 305. Mr. Powell received 741. Mr. Ivan had the backing of the PDA and Mr. Powell of the PCDO.

Mr. Bohen received 1,329 votes in the Township, compared to 163 for Robert C. Grant and 74 for Christian J. Lund, his two opponents.

Borough voters gave Mr. Bohen 891 votes; Mr. Grant, 118 and Mr. Lund 61.

A Busy Ballot. On the most complex ballot ever seen in Mercer County, Democrats pulled the levers heavily for Senator McGovern's delegates at the state and county levels. Official Borough figures give Mr. McGovern 1,271 votes over 162 for Senator Hubert Humphrey.

In the Township the seven delegates-at-large for McGovern averaged 2,605 votes to the Hubert Humphrey average of 237. County delegates committed to Edward Muskie polled an average of 44 votes. Delegates for Shirley Chisholm averaged 126.

Mr. Gaby, who wants to challenge Senator Clifford Case, won 1,006 votes in the Township to 177 for Paul Krebs. In the Borough, he polled 176 to Mr. Krebs' 38.

For the Republicans, the interesting local race was in the Freeholder column. Borough Republicans gave incumbent Clifford Snedeker 59 votes and Carmen J. Armenti, lately a Democrat but now a Republican, 48 votes. Their opponents Lester H. Allen and Frederick Keefer won 6 and 12 respectively.

Township Republicans gave Snedeker and Armenti 607 and 511 and Allen and Keefer, 76 and 58.

GOHEEN GETS DEGREE. In Final Commencement "Oh, wow!" said President Robert F. Goheen, is the exclamation that probably best represented his feelings on receiving a surprise honorary Doctor of Laws degree at Tuesday's Princeton University commencement.

It was the final commencement for Dr. Goheen, who will step down June 30 after 15 years as President of the University.

"Patient, always humane and trustworthy . . . rockily steadfast (an unsympathetic witness might say stubborn), not because he fails to understand and respect the views of others but because he refuses to compromise his own enduring values . . ." the Trustees' citation read.

The commencement was an orderly one. By official count, 784 of the 810 graduates inaranged in the procession, 685 in cap-and-gown. The statistics are notably higher than in recent years, when protest has been the program of the day.

About a dozen graduating seniors stood, quietly holding anti-war posters. Others stood every two minutes in memory of war dead.

Before commencement on Tuesday morning, about 40 students met behind Nassau Hall and stood in silent commemoration of the dead.

Five Others Honored. The University also conferred honorary degrees on five other persons including: Alvin Ailey, choreographer, director and dancer; and head of The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre; Elizabeth L. Moore, civic and education leader, Board Chairman, State University of New York; Hannah Arendt, political scientist, Professor, New School for Social Research; John H. Franklin, History Professor, University of Chicago; and Roger H. Sessions, composer and Professor of Music, Emeritus, of Princeton University.

Twenty-three Princeton area residents were among the 810 seniors receiving degrees. Sixty-five women received bachelor's degrees.

Those from this area include: Maurice D. Lee III, 10 Symmes Court, Cranbury; Daniel J. O'Grady, 10 E. Dorchester Apts., Cranbury; Olaf J. Ogland, Stoney Brook Road, Hopewell; and Michael R. Carr, 8 Dublin Road, Pennington.

"NO!" TO APARTMENTS
Zoning Rule Protested. Strong protest against the variance granted by the Township Zoning Board to allow a 53-apartment project has been registered with Township officials by the League of Women Voters.

PRESIDENT HONORED: On the occasion of his last commencement as President of Princeton University, Dr. Robert F. Goheen was the surprised recipient of an honorary degree in the traditional ceremonies Tuesday.

The League believes the Zoning Board's action constitutes "zoning by variance" and "haphazard development by variance." The organization also protests the "precipitous manner" in which the decision was reached. The board made its decision the same evening the plans were presented.

In a letter to Township Committee, read at Committee's Monday night meeting, the League urged the Regional Planning Board to make its housing recommendations known as soon as possible.

Mayor John D. Wallace said Committee has received only part of the Zoning Board case record so far, and expects to receive Planning Board comments.

Golda Gottlieb, chairman of the Planning Board's housing sub-committee, has promised a statement on the apartment project, the mayor said. Committeeman James A. Floyd suggested that the Citizens Advisory Committee on Housing also be brought into the discussions.

The Zoning Board's recommendation for a variance will probably be considered by Committee at an extra meeting scheduled for June 26.

Watch the Curb. Curb-cuts, favored by many bicyclists, are opposed by Committee, at least for the Franklin Avenue curb near both John Witherspoon School and the high school. Too hazardous, warned the Township Traffic Safety Committee, and mayor and Committeemen agreed.

Collections Down. Re-cycling is wobbling, the mayor reported. The third re-cycling week for the Township — admittedly only a four-day week because of Memorial Day — saw a 29 per cent drop in newspaper collection (to eight Long-range hopes are for a rain-free weekend, the Man reports. Even the forecast for the next 30 days is somewhat drier than the year has been so far — precipitation is expected to be about normal — not well above.

It will be a good deal warmer, too, with temperatures making daily excursions to the 80-degree mark. June may be the kind of month we've all been waiting for.

widewalk were tabled. Only two were submitted and both were over the $9,600 appropriation. Engineer Joseph Hodak advised Committee to appropriate about $2,000 more to fill in the gap. "You won't save much by rebidding," he said. Committee accepted a $4,447 bid for police uniforms from the same firm that has supplied them before. This time, the bid is $315 less. Administrator Joseph R. Nini reported. The breakdown: $3,491 for police uniforms, $956 for crossing-guard uniforms. Five other companies submitted bids.

Mr. Nini reported investigations he had made at Committee's request on Somerset County's plans to realign Laurel Road in Kingston so that it parallels the Millstone and the canal between Route 518 and Route 27.

No date has been set for this construction, Mr. Nini reported, although it has been approved by the Franklin Township Council and planning board, and the Somerset County Planning Board.

SPORTS CAR TOTALED

Driver, Passenger, Hurt. There were two spectacular single car crashes in the Township last week, the most recent of which occurred Monday morning at 1:09 when a $6,500 Porsche sports car struck two trees on the Princeton Kingston Road and was demolished. The driver, Keith Johnson, 23, of Edgerstoune Road, was admitted to the Princeton Medical Center with a fractured vertebra and fractured jaw. His passenger, Barbara Miller, 19, of Yardley, Pa., was admitted with lacerations of the right arm and multiple contusions of the head.

The accident took place 655 feet west of Locust Lane—some 200 feet from the spot where Princeton University student Thomas Cerney was killed in a two-car collision on April 15. The latter is the lone traffic fatality in the Township this year.

According to Sgt. Anthony Nini, Township Traffic Safety Officer, the impact sheared off the car's right rear wheel, which was found 50 feet away. The two trees the car hit are about 40 feet apart, he said.

Charges are pending the completion of the investigation of the accident by Ptl. John Hammond. The Johnson car was heading toward Princeton and left the road on a curve.

Car Is Airborne. Two young men suffered only minor injuries Sunday when their 1968 Corvette, airborne for 77 feet, struck a tree on Faculty Road, 18 feet above the ground.

Treated for minor injuries at the Medical Center and released were Jeffrey W. Jones, 22, of Monroeville, the driver, and Richard Grodsky, 22, of Silver Springs, Md. "They were unbelievably lucky," said Sgt. Nini. Their car was a total loss.

Mr. Jones was thrown clear of the car. Mr. Grodsky was pinned underneath the car and it took rescue workers 45 minutes to free him. Jones, who told police he had fallen asleep at the wheel, was ticketed for careless driving by Ptl. David Funk. The crash occurred at 2:16 a.m.

According to the report, the car left more than 100 feet of skid marks. When it struck an embankment after leaving 68 feet of furrow marks, it became airborne and flipped end over end, coming to rest on its roof after striking the tree. Total distance the car traveled out of control: 256 feet.

IDA Postscript

A Rutgers University student has been charged with possession of stolen property after he was seen wearing a hat and shield belonging to a Borough patrolman.

Michael E. Wormser, 19, of Highland Park, was observed in a shopping center Friday by Edison Township police allegedly wearing the police hat and badge No. 12 which was lost by Borough Ptl. David Alston during the first day of the student demonstrations here at the Institute for Defense Analyses on May 10.

Richard V. Clark 3d, St. Louis, Mo. Ptl. William Hunter issues Mr. Mudge a summons for careless driving.

Two persons received lesser injuries in Thursday accidents.

Constance M. Hensley, 32 of Trenton, was treated at the Medical Center for abrasions and contusions, after she ran into the rear of a car on Witherpoon Street which had stopped to avoid a dog. She told Ptl. David Wilbur that she was unable to stop intine. There were no charges. The other driver was Dr. Joseph M. Rampona, 72, of 272 Nassau Street.

A half-hour earlier, at 11:42 a.m., Dorothy Morgenstern, 54, 94 Library Place, was ticketed for careless driving, after hitting a parked car on Jefferson Road near Hawthorne. Taken in a patrol car to the Medical Center, she was treated for a laceration of the lip and loosened teeth.

30 STUDENTS TREATED

In Simulated Disaster. Last Friday afternoon, a tractor-trailer collided with a school bus carrying 30 students on The Great Road, killing some and injuring others.

The victims were rushed to the new emergency wing at the Princeton Medical Center by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

If this shocking tragedy escaped attention, it is because it was only make-believe—one of two simulated disaster drills the Princeton Medical Center is required to stage every year. It marked the first time, however, that the new emergency complex at the Medical Center took part in such an operation.

A hospital spokesman said that doctors at the Medical Center were tremendously pleased with the results of the drill, describing it as effective and successful. The spokesman added the drill was still being evaluated.

The drill was a surprise. There was no advance warning to doctors that it was only a drill. All personnel at the hospital—doctors, nurses and other employees—responded and proceeded to their assigned stations, the spokesman said. The victims—students at Princeton Day School—were each tagged with a specific injury.

Those with a DOA tag were actually taken to the hospital morgue; those in need of surgery were operated on. Each was treated for whatever his simulated injury required.

MAN BELIEVED DROWNED

Missing Since Friday. A Princeton man apparently has drowned after he and a companion fell off their rubber raft which overturned Friday in the Delaware River near New Hope.

Rescue Squads from Lambertville and Titusville and a New Jersey State Police helicopter joined in the search for Gerald Gilbert, 22, of 347

DISASTER VICTIMS: Lying neatly in a row on stretchers waiting to be placed inside the Princeton First Aid and Rescue van are 30 students from Princeton Day School — "victims" of a simulated disaster drill conducted by the Princeton Medical Center. At left is Township Ptl. David Cromwell, president of the First Aid Squad, waiting for stretcher team to return for another victim. Story this page.

Rosedale Road. A spokesman for the Lambertville Rescue Squad said Tuesday that Mr. Gilbert's body has not been found and that the search has been halted.

With Mr. Gilbert was John M. Provenzano, 26, of 2663 Main Street, Lawrenceville, who survived the tragedy. Mr. Provenzano managed to swim ashore after being dragged about a half-mile down river. He told police that he saw Mr. Gilbert only once after their raft overturned.

Both were swept through the wing dam below New Hope shortly after 2 p.m. Friday. Rescue operations were halted Friday around 6 p.m. by thunderstorms. They were resumed Saturday morning but called off again by 4 p.m.

The search was hindered by the rain swollen river. It was still too high and swift on Saturday, to use divers or conduct grappling operations, according to a rescue squad spokesman.

MAYORS TO MEET

On County Problems. Low-income housing, drugs and waste disposal came under the scrutiny of Mercer County's 13 mayors Saturday at a quarterly meeting in Trenton.

Mayor John D. Wallace of Princeton Township reported Monday that the mayors agreed to exchange more information on low-income housing, with a view to examining housing problems throughout the county.

East Windsor Township, one of the 13 municipalities, is currently being sued by the county Legal Aid Society for alleged failure to provide low-income housing for people who live in East Windsor, and those who work there but cannot afford housing.

A 100-bed facility in Trenton for therapeutic drug treatment is also a possibility, the mayor said. He expressed concern at what he called lack of contact between county and towns on attempts to deal with the drug problem.

Mayor Wallace also reported that Mercer County expects to have a landfill site by next year. County officials won't say where it is.

TO VOTE ON POLICE LAW

At Council Meeting. Borough Council scheduled to act next Tuesday on the controversial proposal to add three civilian voting members to the police ("Public Safety") committee. Council will hold its regular June meeting at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

Councilman Martin P. Lombardo announced this week that he will vote against the measure so long as Council declines to add two police officers to the committee as well as the civilian voting members. Mr. Lombardo said he will introduce an amendment proposing the addition of two officers. He introduced a similar amendment at the May meeting but it was never seconded.

$600 IN TOOLS TAKEN

From Nassau St. Garage. An assortment of tools valued at approximately $600 were stolen Sunday from Johnson & Ferrara's Garage, 250 Nassau Street.

Police said that a panel next to a door had been kicked in to gain entry. They recovered a drill that had apparently been dropped as the thieves fled. Sgt. John J. Bellow is investigating.

Home Entered. Camera equipment, a tape recorder, stereo tapes, a man's watch, pen set, liquor and cash with a combined value of $485 were stolen during the weekend from the home of Sebastiano Pirone, 37 Harris Road.

Mr. Pirone told police that he and his wife noticed the rear door half open when they returned home at 12:45 Sunday morning after attending a wedding. Police reported that a screen of a first floor bath had been ripped open to get inside.

Camera Stolen. A Nikon camera with a zoom lens valued at $550 was reported stolen last week by Clair Townsend of the Princeton Inn Dormitory.

Miss Townsend told police she first discovered the camera missing from a shelf in her room on Friday. The room was unlocked, she said.

Xerox Machine Found. A $3,000 Xerox machine stolen February 19 from Programmed Control Corp., 20 Nassau Street, was recovered last week by Trenton police in a hallway of an apartment building on Tyler Avenue.

The machine, apparently undamaged, was picked up by Sgt. Arthur Gallant, who had conducted the initial investigation.

BOROUGH MAN CHARGED

With Attempted Rape. Reunion weekend in Princeton, described by Chief Peter J. McCrohan as "fairly quiet," was marred by the report of an attempted rape of a Scarsdale, N.Y., woman.

Police have arrested Thomas Turner, 29, of 39 Quarry Street, and charged him with attempted rape. Free on $1,500 bail, he was scheduled to be heard in Borough Court this Wednesday.

According to police, Turner allegedly pushed the victim into a room near the second entry of Henry Hall. Her screams brought University proctors and off-duty Township Ptl. David Cromwell to the scene. Chief McCrohan reported that the victim was distraught following the assault but not injured.

Postmaster John Dilworth to Retire June 30

John L. Dilworth, Princeton's Postmaster since January 24, 1964, will retire June 30.

"It has been a happy experience," Mr. Dilworth said this week in announcing his retirement to friends and associates. He has been in the postal service since December 1, 1943, when he stopped by to help the post office in the Christmas rush. He's been there ever since.

Mr. Dilworth's successor has not yet been named. The job of postmaster has always been a political plum of patronage, but under new federal regulations, this is no longer the case.

A team of three from the Philadelphia office of the department's eastern region, will interview the eight eligible men in Princeton's post office, and taking into account Mr. Dilworth's own recommendation, will make the choice.

To Name Successor Shortly. Postmasters looking toward retirement are asked to work quietly with the successor of their choice, "bringing him along," in Mr. Dilworth's words. This choice has already been made by Mr. Dilworth, but he declines to say who it is. Until a successor is formally named, Basil Ferrara will be in charge of the Princeton post office after Mr. Dilworth's departure.

The installation here in Princeton is a sizeable operation. Almost $4 million in postal transactions is handled by the 155 employees in the Princeton post offices three locations: the main office in West Windsor on Alexander, the Palmer Square installation and the branch in the Princeton Shopping Center.

After retirement? "I've got a lot to do around the house," Mr. Dilworth explains, in the classic phrase of men about to retire. First, however, he and his wife Muriel will take their annual summer vacation at Nag's Head, North Carolina, their favorite vacation spot in all the world.

Then, they may drive out west. "We've been there before, and to Hawaii, but we've never driven to the coast and we'd like to see the country that way."

Music for Relaxation. Back at home, Mr. Dilworth will continue his contented listening while Mrs. Dilworth plays the electronic organ ("I'm very proud of her playing...") and perhaps the former postmaster will sing in a chorus or two.

The house at 22 Stanley Avenue is the one built by the Dilworths back in 1946, about the time John entered the postal service. They will continue to live there, because they are Princeton people.

John Dilworth was born here, graduated from Princeton High, and is a "cradle-roll member" of the Methodist Church. He is a member of the Princeton Democratic Association, and more than a dozen other groups, among them the Elks and the Scottish Rite Temple.

Many of these organizations, however, are connected with the post office and some of them will see less of Mr. Dilworth after he turns the key behind him on June 30.

Supporters of Mr. Gaby's campaign list a contribution of $5,500 from Mrs. Martindell and one of $300 from Leonard Di Donato.

AFS HOLDS DINNER

To Honor Students, Families. The Princeton Chapter of the American Field Service held an International Dinner last week at All Saints Chapel in honor of the three international students who will soon be returning to their home countries, and their host families.

Mrs. Leslie Vivian, outgoing President of AFS, presented the students and families with photograph albums and commented that in this small world they could well look forward to seeing one another again. She also paid tribute to the "leap of faith" each makes in accepting the other, totally unknown beforehand, for a year's stay.

The departing students are: Rhys Ollerenshaw, who will be Old shampooing method is inefficient, costly to you, outdated. Here's why...

... Heavy brush rotating on carpet fibers tend to distort carpet pile and cause added wear.

... Brush drives dirt and detergent deeper into carpet pile making it even more difficult to remove. Top surface of carpet appears clean, but sub-surface dirt and residue remain to collect more dirt or to rise back to surface — soon, carpet appears more soiled than before cleaning.

New "Steam-Way" Jet Steam Clean Extraction utilizes revolutionary new principle...

... Saturated steam under pressure is forced down into carpet fabric to full depth of pile where it mixes with dirt and sediment holding it in suspension.

... Suction then picks up saturated steam entrained dirt mixture and carries it back to vacuum tank.

... Carpet is cleaned from bottom up, not top down. There is no residual dirt or detergent in fabric to rise to surface of carpet or to collect more dirt.

... Cleaning is thorough. Carpet stays clean longer after job is done.

... Recently scrubbed or shampooed carpets can be "Steam-Way" cleaned with same amazing results.

days Monday in Borough traffic court for driving while on a revoked list. Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. imposed the fine and suspension.

Douglas Arcamone, 20, Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, paid two fines: $25 for a red light infraction and $15 for late inspection. Naomi Chandler, 107 Westcott Road; Felix Simone, 23, 339 Mt. Lucas Road; and Raymond A. Grover, 57, 33 Chestnut Street, each paid $15 for careless driving.

Driving with studded tires out of season cost Allan Blaer, 511A Kingston Terrace, $30, while obstructing passage brought a $25 fine to David A. Cox, 23, 17B Graduate College.

Others: James P. Costello, 19, 104 South Main Street, Pennington, $15, operating on a permit without a licensed driver present; James J. Baskell, 24, 28 Bank Street, $15, red light; Lillian R. Kaplan, 47, Griggstown Road, Belle Mead, $12, stop sign; and Thomas S. Bonthron, 20, The Great Road, $10, unregistered vehicle.

SCHOOL PROBLEM?

Come to Meeting. Parents who would like to discuss a problem concerning the Princeton Regional schools are invited to the public meeting of the school board's Community Relations Committee next Tuesday, at 7:15 p.m. in Community Park School's library.

The meeting will be held before the regular school board meeting, and will be led by Eric Craig, school board member who is chairman of the Community Relations Committee.

"People who would like to bring up some problem they feel is affecting the lives of their children are urged to attend," Mr. Craig says. "We feel that informal discussions of this nature will help clear the air and pave the way for solutions."

REQUIREMENTS MET

For Restaurant Parking. The Rusty Scupper Restaurant polished off the last of its pots and pans Tuesday night before the Planning Board and backers say they expect to serve the first customer in November.

The restaurant will be on Lower Alexander next to the Princeton Car Wash, from whom it is leasing 19 parking spaces to be used after the Car Wash has closed down for the day.

Zoning Board requirements state that Scupper customers may use those 19 stalls only between the hours of 5:30 p.m. and 8 a.m. The span of hours bears no relation to the Scupper's hours of service—8 a.m. is the hour the Car Wash starts up again.

The restriction applies to a 60-seat section of the restaurant—which a few Planning Board wags referred to as The Car Wash Room—and means that the Scupper won't be able to use the section for lunch-hour service.

Scupper backers Charles A. Greathouse and Leighton Laughlin received permission Monday night from Township Committee to acquire the liquor license belonging to Mrs. Ruth Starr of Starr's Inn, 9 Birch Avenue.

In other business Tuesday, the Planning Board listened informally to a discussion about subdividing the "Beatty House" property on Vandeventer so a second house can be built facing Park. But the legal hearing notice was published one day short of the required ten days, and the board will hold a formal public hearing July 5.

J. Seward Johnson needs development permits to allow him to build in the flood-hazard area of his newly-acquired property, "Hilltop" and representatives of Clarke and Rapuano, landscape architects, detailed Mr. Johnson's plans.

A Stony Brook bridge, two shallow ponds built in a tributary of the brook, fencing and a corner of a tennis court all lie in the flood-hazard area.

Princeton Theological Seminary again appeared before the board, protesting requirements to pave Mt. Lucas, and build curb, drainage and sidewalks. Faculty housing is being built on Mt. Lucas.

The case was set aside for discussion in executive session.

FOUR FOR SUMMER

By Summer Intime. Four plays, 21 films and a play for children are in readiness at Murray Theatre on the University campus under the auspices of Summer Intime.

Films will be shown in McCormick Art Museum, which is next to Murray Theatre. Both auditoriums are air-conditioned.

The four plays are "Billy Liar," "Happy Birthday, Wanda June," "A Flea in Her Ear" and "What the Butler Saw."

Among the films are "Citizen Kane," "Room Service," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" in the 1922 Lon Chaney version, "Top Hat" and "Intolerance."

The children's play is "Adventures in Proofland," a new play written for Summer Intime's Fifth Anniversary Season, which this is.

The season will begin with "Billy Liar," the story of a young man who gets into hilarious predicaments because he is an incurable liar. It will open June 29, playing that weekend, and also July 6-9.

The summer will continue July 13-14-15-16 with Kurt Vonnegut Jr.'s "Happy Birthday, Wanda June," the story of a contemporary Ulysses who comes home after eight years in the jungle. The play will be given also on July 20-21-22-23.

Next, "A Flea in Her Ear," by Georges Feydeau, is in the classic tradition of French bedroom farces from the turn-of-the-century. It will play from July 27-30 and again August 3-6.

"What the Butler Saw" is a farce which pokes at The Establishment and the concept of traditional sexual roles. It will close the season with performances August 10-13 and 17-20.

Films will be shown at 8 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays starting July 3.

"Adventures in Proofland," by Ellen Donegan, is a fantasy set in a magical kingdom. There are songs and dances (performed by Toothless the Ginger Bear) and a perfectly splendid chase scene.

It will play Wednesdays, July 19, 26 and August 2 at 11 a.m.

Need Boy, 10 to 14

"Happy Birthday, Wanda June," the Kurt Vonnegut Jr. play scheduled for summer production by Summer Intime, needs a boy between 10 and 14 years old to play the role of Paul.

Auditions will be held this Saturday at 10 a.m. at Murray Theatre under the guidance of Sallie Brophy, who will direct the play.

News Of The Theatres

1971 and "Hamlet" in 1970 received wide acclaim and prompted several invitations to tour New Jersey Schools. Such a tour was undertaken last year and another is now being considered.

Mr. Guarnieri has in past years directed or designed productions at The New Jersey Cultural Center, Trenton State College, Washington Crossing Park, Theatre Intime and is presently Designer for Artists Showcase Theatre and President of The Pennington Players.

Dr. Erath is a member of the English Department of Trenton State College specializing in Shakespeare, Renaissance and Restoration Drama. He also serves as coordinator of The International Education Program.

Auditions will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday evenings in the auditorium of The Trenton Conservatory of Music, 540 East State Street (opposite the Midtown Motel).

TRY GLASSBORO

For Summer Theatre. Neil Simon's comedy hit "Plaza Suite" will launch the Glassboro Summer Theatre at Glassboro State College on Saturday, June 24 at 8:30 p.m. It will be repeated June 25 and 30, and again July 1 and 2. "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" will follow on July 8-9, 14-15-16 and "Sunrise at Campobello" will close the season with performances July 22-23 and 28-29-30.

A musical for children, "Mr. Herman and the Cave Company" will be given Saturdays.

THE HOT ROCK: George Segel reads the press notices on his recent caper in this scene with Charlotte Roy from the adventure-comedy now at the Playhouse.

July 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29 at 10:30 a.m. Special group performances will be arranged on request.

Season tickets for all four plays are $6.50 each, with special rates available for groups of 20 or more. Information may be obtained by calling 609-445-5288, or writing the Glassboro Summer Theatre, Glassboro, N. J. 08028.

FIVE FOR THE SUMMER

In Madison, N. J. A professional, Actors' Equity company has been assembled at Drew University in Madison, N. J. for the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival's summer season, scheduled to start

Tuesday, June 27. The company will play "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Troilus and Cressida," and also, from the non-Shakespearean repertory, "Beyond the Fringe," "The Hostage" and "The Bourgeois Gentleman." All will be given in rotating repertory through September 3. Additional information may be obtained from the Festival in Madison.

WHERE WAS "TITUS?"

Alive, at PHS. Because a key member of the cast of "Titus Andronicus: A Marx Brothers Tragedy," sustained an accident, the Princeton High School play could not be given last weekend.

It will be presented this Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

PLAYHOUSE

The Hot Rock (now playing) is a caper movie with moments of high comedy. Director Peter Yates, maker of "Bullitt," takes a simple situation, plans to rob the Brooklyn Museum of the Sahara Stone, and develops it into a series of complications, all very briskly staged.

Robert Redford is the robbery mastermind who's a loser. Just been released from jail, his brother-in-law, played by George Segal, talks him into another job — lifting the jewel from the Museum.

Joining in the caper are a car nut, Ron Leibman, and an explosives specialist, Paul Sand, who create such enormously off-heat and entertaining characters that they steal the film.

The jewel, for one reason after another, keeps eluding the gang's grasp, with possibly the most hysterically funny moment in a film in montis occurring during the museum break-in. A driving scene and the helicopter sequence also stand out.

GARDEN

Fritz the Cat (now playing), based upon characters created by Robert Crumb, takes a look at the drug-pop culture of the 1960's, with jabs at the political, sexual and racial attitudes of the decade.

A few years ago, the underground comic opened a new creative frontier in cartooning, epitomized by the Crumb drawings. Yet no features have been released that combine an inventive drawing hand with an aware sensibility. The high cost is a factor — "Fritz" took two years — but the difficulty in getting a company to back a cartoon filled with an anti everything attitude has weighed even more.

"Fritz" breaks the ice. The Crumb characters have been given the bawdy characteristics of the originals and cavort throughout in a deceptively engaging, insidiously charming manner. Besides meeting all the requirements for a mores buster, it is also a beautiful cartoon.

Fritz's world is populated by animals, each representing different groups. He explores the various supposedly prohibitive areas open to the young, starting off as a college student, then discovering drugs, orgies and revolution. What makes the cartoon a potent commentary is the use of Fritz's character as a comment on well-to-do students who dabble in "hip" enterprises on a casual basis, working their way up to revolutionary politics as if that was just another game, not realizing it is a life and death matter.

In one of the best scenes, Fritz is the catalyst for a Harlem riot. He runs away safely, but the crows (representing blacks) die all around him, including the one who has been his protector. There are scenes that many will find offensive: police take the form of pigs; sexism towards women abounds and sex scenes are explicit.

In many instances pointedly and brilliantly funny, "Fritz" is a satire on the Sixties that those of the Left will find no easier to take than will those of the Right. For those with an open mind, this is a breakthrough in the creative cartoon. Several times there are pauses for little, reflective mood pieces. All are exquisite, but one in particular of Harlem that uses a Billie Holiday song on the sound-track, is a real achievement in animation for it is able to create the many sides of Harlem's realities, all with the use of animated pictures. This may not have been what Disney had in mind.

SCHOOL BELL RINGS

At Princeton Potters. Classes in the art of pottery making begin this week at Princeton Potters Studio, 759 State Road. The studio, located just beyond Mary Watts' woodpile on Route 206, is in a long, low building at the rear of the main building.

Princeton Potters offers instruction, attractive pottery gifts and has on its shelves an arsenal of pottery and sculpture tools, brought down from the parent organization, Sculpture House in New York City.

Beatrice Lanzrein, a young Swiss, is the resident instructor. A graduate of one of Germany's outstanding schools for pottery and design, the Staatliche Hochschule für bildende Künste in West Berlin, she is currently experimenting with such intriguing designs as a two-spouted teapot, based up on the oval.

The studio is owned by the Barries, long-time residents of Princeton: father George, head of Sculpture House, a 64-year-old institution, and his son Brunner. Brunner attended the Nassau Street School not too long ago, and he's still a little startled to find University sculpture classes in the gym where he played basketball.

If you are already going full speed as a sculptor, Princeton Potters can have things cast in bronze or Vatican stone for you through Sculpture House. Work can be enlarged, too. Wood, stone and the various clays are available.

In fact, the clays are mixed at Sculpture House's Standard Clay Mines, located on the Ettl Farm on Rosedale Road. Some 15 to 18 different kinds of clay are made, water or oil based, as you wish.

Mrs. Lanzrein will be starting the classes on Tuesday, the 13th, for the evening group. Afternoon sessions begin the next day. You work three hours a day for ten weeks on such learners' techniques as making slabs, hand-building, wheel-throwing and different methods of glazing.

PRINCETON POTTERS: Beatrice Lanzrein, a Swiss potter formerly with Sculpture House pottery studio in New York, is the instructor for the summer class series that begins this week at Princeton Potters Studio, 759 State Road. The studio also displays pottery for sale and has a complete line of materials and tools for pottery making and sculpture.

The more advanced students join in after the third or fourth session. "And I will give them special works," Mrs. Lanzrein says. "Perhaps in the fall I will have one children's class without wheel-throwing."

Beatrice Lanzrein became a potter in a most round-about way. Growing up in Zurich, she was always acquainted with pottery in a general sort of way as her mother is a ceramic painter. However, she studied ballet in Zurich and in London, married a chorologist who now does dance notations with Balanchine in New York. She found that her career made "everything very difficult...we were always separated, and I decided to give up dancing. I suddenly remembered how much pottery we did at home." She continues, "Clay is a very wonderful thing. I studied in Berlin for two years and I liked it very, very much." After Berlin, she worked on her own pots at Sculpture House in New York, ultimately becoming a teacher.

"Most of my things are useful: dishes, teapots, pitchers. What I like very much to do is the Japanese kind of slabs for dishes. One just rolls it and then cuts it, perhaps round or square, and put it over or inside a plaster shape. It's very elegant. I had an idea to make a teapot with two spouts, and I have found that men like them very much. I think two spouts are very practical."

There will be just three classes this summer. The size is limited to ten students, and they are filling up rapidly. After Labor Day, a new series begins.

Hours at the Princeton Potters are 10 to 5 Monday thru Friday, and 1 to 4 on Saturday. The phone is 924-0048, a Princeton number that the Barrie family has kept all these years since they first moved to Hibben Road.

THE YOUNG LOOK

At The Wearhouse. All sizes in the young look are to be found at The Wearhouse, located in Nassau Street's Princeton Plaza next to the Whole Earth Center. If unisex jeans and tops are your thing, he sure you stop by.

Prices are discount rates. You'll find classic, wear-everywhere pants for $5 and $6, for instance.

Just in are pert little dresses in gingham checks, short and full. Just right to wear on Nassau Street, or at the beach over a bikini or to top hot pants. In red-and-white checks, with contrasting blue-and-white trim at the yoke, the dresses have sheer white long sleeves. ($12). Another in navy-and-white gingham, features a full skirt below a checked yoke cut on the bias. Some of the gingham have long sleeves, others are short. ($7).

In off-white homespun, long dresses with a square yoke charmingly embroidered in navy blue. The skirt is gracefully full, and the sleeves are wristlength, closed with three buttons. ($15.)

The Wearhouse is long on T-shirts. We saw the traditional blue-and-white horizontal stripes with a long shirttail, and mod v-necks in joyous color combinations. Cool necklines are featured on most; some are a simple line from shoulder to shoulder, others a deep U-shape.

Among the tops, and the color choice is very, very wide, is an open weave, delicately done, in a strong blue. There are the sport shirt front closings, buttoned in brass. Stripes are often irregularly spaced for interesting contrast. And for a touch of the Ivy League, navy tops with striped short sleeves. (Figure about $5 and $6.)

It's New To Us

patch pockets and all — that you see on Nassau Street take up a whole rack at The Wearhouse. Railroad engineers' stripes in blue and white, if you like, with navy pockets and "Outer Limits" on a small flag over the chest. Traditional navy, as well as maroon and brown, in solid colors are available too. The overalls are discounted to $8.

The matching jackets have the military cut, waist length with snap fronts. ($12-$15)

Unisex shirts at The Wearhouse feature prairie prints, if that's your bag, or vertical stripes, and way-out prints. The girls have been buying as many of these as the men, we were told. The shirts are bright and lively, great for the summer mood.

Jeans are immensely varied. There's an Army camouflage print; a choice of pure or off-white; some rousing stripes, and solids in such colors as soft blue. In navy and in sand colors, the jeans have a wide stripe of red, white and blue running down the outer seam.

The Wearhouse is also strong on belts, headbands, and shoulder bags. The headbands ($1) are plain suede, or suede covered with such symbols as arrows, circles and stars. Belts, all in the $3 to $5 range, feature the traditional simple buckle or the fancier versions, such as a star in a circle, a free form, or castings. The belts run from two inches to about four inches wide. There are heavy, masculine calfskins; supple links of suede, string weaves, corded, and elastic versions in The Wearhouse's large collection.

Among the shoulder bags, a deep navy with red-white-and-blue stripe around the sides and up over the shoulder. Another of light straw closely woven, with dark leather trim. A white patent leather has brown and white bullseye for trim. Prices are about $5 for the mod types to around $15 for the leathers.

Talk about togetherness!

It happens every night! He always wants his half down the middle on your cramped, crowded old-fashioned double bed.

For those who sleep so tight...now's the time to unite!

It's time for a new modern Queen size Beautyrest double bed. It gives 20% more S-T-R-E-T-C-H out space. (The King size gives you 50% more.) Oh happy day...and happier nights! Now togetherness will be optional! Here's the rest of this story.

Beautyrest has more than twice the coils of an ordinary mattress. So it gives much more support. And it comes in four firmnesses. So sleepers have a wide selection. But firmness alone can't support your body properly. Unlike hard "boardy" mattresses, Beautyrest offers a very special flexible firmness.

That's because Beautyrest is different. It has separate coils that separately support that part of your body they're under. Hip coils support hips, shoulder coils support shoulders, while others firmly support your back or sides. By conforming to your shape, Beautyrest gives more support, more comfortably than any other firm mattress. It gives every part of your body a good night's rest.

What about cost? The Queen is only a penny more per night than the old fashioned size. Nice eh? And we can get together on very easy credit terms. So why don't you sleep bigger and better?

P.S. No need to buy new furniture for your new Queen size. Inexpensive Bed Stretcher rails will make your present bedstead larger and wider. Ask!

Police Action Praised.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have sent to Mayor Cawley of Princeton Borough and Mayor Wallace of Princeton Township:

I want to express my thanks and appreciation for the prompt and efficient support we received when we called for help during the demonstrations at the Institute for Defense Analyses between May 10 and May 15 just past. I am extending this gratitude to both of you gentlemen, the administrators and the staffs of both communities and to the two police forces concerned.

The Borough police bore the brunt of the activity at IDA and the Township police were more active in providing protection for my family after we received threatening calls, but both forces performed magnificently in both areas. The entire community can be justly proud of having two such professional, disciplined and dedicated organizations to support them.

I have had the misfortune to witness demonstrations at IDA since 1967 and the police have always performed with great restraint. On the various occasions that they came to IDA and dealt with anywhere from fifty to several hundred demonstrators there has been only one injury to a non-police (two chipped teeth) and that incident has been concluded to have been an accident.

I believe Mayor Cawley said it all when he said, "Demonstrators, not the police, set the level of force involved." To merit such a comment should be the goal of all police organizations.

We also received support from County Prosecutor Bruce Schragger, his first assistant, William Mathesius, the prosecutor's riot squad and the Mercer County Sheriff and several of his men. Their performance was also excellent and I am thanking them separately.

We called on the police as any citizen would do when trouble develops and their prompt and efficient response, in my opinion, prevented an ugly and violent situation from developing. We should all be thankful.

R.A. LEIBLER

Police Committee Attacked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Subject: The Dagger at the Princeton Borough Council.

A Dagger in the Back of the Princeton Borough Police as a Token of Esteem for their Virtues on behalf of the Borough Council, is perhaps an apt description of the Council's actions, at their Meeting on the 9th of May, at the Borough's Council Chambers!

Notwithstanding that an overwhelming number of those present were outspoken Against the proposed amendment to add three more members to the so-called "Police Committee" (which body has no valid reason for existing in the first place, and which can only serve to hamstring effective Police Action) and that the Reasoning in Support of these objections was plainly defined by several Townspeople, at least one member of the Council itself, the Chief of the local Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, and others, the Council voted four to two, in favor of this Proposal!

Nobody, either on the Council, or among the Citizenry, could advance a single reason, which could truthfully withstand examination, in justification of this proposal! It is apparent that the Council of Princeton Borough had made up its mind before coming to the meeting, in which circumstance the question naturally arises "Why hold an 'Open Meeting' at all?" The reasoning of the people, apparently, means nothing! If it did, the Borough Council would take the citizens into consideration and submit the matter to a public referendum!

Meals on Wheels Supported.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Curiosity has gotten the best of me and I am wondering if many of the elderly and shut-ins in Princeton really know what a big help the "Meals on Wheels" is to this group of people. I am in this group in my eighties and a shut-in. My husband is in his nineties.

Meals are delivered to us around noon on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The meals are well balanced and delicious. In addition to the noon meal, supper is provided with tasty sandwiches, dessert and cookies.

A group of young women deliver the dinners around noon. It is entirely voluntary on their part, which certainly is most generous of them. One couldn't ask for a better arrangement than this. No dishes to wash other than a glass for the milk which is provided with the dinner, or one can easily make a cup of tea or coffee if they prefer.

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS' "Mailbox" should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words may be edited or omitted entirely, at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

We started with the "Meals on Wheels" at its beginning and my fondest hope is that it will continue on indefinitely since it is such a wonderful arrangement for the elderly and handicapped people.

I learned recently that "Meals on Wheels" have sent out over 447 meals to 26 different people, which I think, speaks for itself.

Govern Here, Not America.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

When I vote for local candidates, I expect they will concern themselves with problems and governance involving this community; when I vote for federal officials I anticipate that they will concern themselves with national matters.

God only knows that Princeton, N.J. has enough problems of its own which certainly seem unsolved without having you devote your time and energies to expressing, on the community's behalf, your opposition to Mr. Nixon's Vietnam policies. Besides, I'd call it a little presumptuous.

One might pause to ask: if you can't solve Princeton's traffic problems, drug problems, race problems, recreation problems, tax problems, environmental problems, growth problems what expertise you have to solve Vietnam's problems?

All this isn't to say that neither you, nor I, should if we wish express our views to Washington. As individuals. But I voted for you, and expect you to govern Princeton, not America. And I suggest that perhaps some of our nation's problems start right here at home.

Tax Reform No Boon Here.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In talking with people about the proposed state income tax, I find it rather discouraging that those who are for it seem to think they'll get a reduction in their property tax of about 40 percent, something last week's letter writer Anne F. O'Neill apparently also believes.

This in spite of the excellent write-up in the March 2 issue of Town Topics, where it is revealed that the Township could expect a drop of only 12-15 percent and the Borough the magnificent amount of one percent!

I can only gather there'll be a lot of surprised faces in Princeton after they've received their total tax bills and have added up their "savings"!

returning to Australia after a few weeks stay in Vermont with an AFS project; Lorelle Harker, who is going to California before returning to England; and Mikael Walavara, who returns to Sweden after visiting an uncle in Seattle. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goppsil of 192 Littlebrook Road, Mr. and Mrs. William Weatherly of 176 Western Way, and Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Mali of Pennington were the hosts for the three students, becoming their "American family" while they attended school and participated in community life.

As part of the evening's festivities and as a reminder that AFS is a two-way program, it was announced that Denise Boyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boyer of 194 Birch Avenue, and a finalist in the AFS Americans Abroad program, had received word of her placement with a family of six children in Denmark. Denise will leave in June for orientation in New York and the flight to Denmark, returning in September for her senior year at Princeton High School.

At the conclusion of the dinner, officers were elected for the coming year. They are: President, Richard Baker; Vice-President, Mrs. William Besser; Treasurer, Harry Cooke; Finance Chairman, Joel Johnson; and Secretary, Mrs. William Flemer, III.

FETE AIDED

By Two Princeton Artists. Two well known Princeton artists are lending their creative talents to this year's Princeton Hospital Fete. Both John Huehnergath, creator of the Tempting Fete's program cover, and Michael Ramus, whose cartoons appear in the program itself, are successful free lance illustrators in the competitive commercial art field.

John Huehnergath, a native of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, is a product of the Philadelphia Museum College of Art as is his wife, also a practicing artist. His versatile work has appeared either on the cover of or inside Newsweek, Sports Illustrated, Esquire, Life, the New York Times Sunday Magazine, Business Week and the Reader's Digest. He has also provided illustrations for numerous books and advertisements.

Mr. Huehnergath's chief employer, Sports Illustrated, sends him throughout the country covering sports events about which he claims a limited knowledge. He is able, however, to record what he sees and lace it with whimsy. The artist works out of a studio in his Snowden Lane home where he lives with his wife, son and daughter.

Michael Ramus' creative cartoons have appeared in Life, Sports Illustrated, Saturday Evening Post, the old American Weekly, Playboy, TV Guide, American Heritage, Horizons and the Princeton Packet. He was born in Naples, Italy, where his father, a doctor with the U.S. Public Health Service, was stationed. He lived at various places throughout this country while growing up and attended Exeter, Yale (where he did cartoons for The Record) and the Art Student's League of New York. While in the Army during World War II he won a Colliers Magazine poster contest and also a prize in a Life Magazine Art Contest for servicemen.

Mr. Ramus has drawn comic books and has done straight illustration and industrial subjects for advertising agencies. However, for a number of years he has turned his considerable talents to cartooning for magazines and newspapers. He is also the recipient of several awards for both calendar painting and experimental work. Mr. Ramus resides with his wife on the Princeton-Kingston Road. They are the parents of a son and two daughters.

(Or Both.) Two kinds of theatre experience will be offered this summer to young people in Princeton through the Street Theatre, now ready for its second season of summer community theatre.

First will be a series of four public performances: a set of three one-act plays, a children's play, three prize-winning scripts from Street Theatre's contest and a full-length play or musical.

Second will be a series of three workshops on theatre techniques. Students from seventh grade on up, are invited to enroll in the workshops and participate in the productions.

Still Reading
word-by-word?

In the first grade, when you were taught to read "Run Spot Run," you had to read it out loud, word-by-word. Later, in the second grade, you were asked to read silently. But you couldn't do it.

You stopped reading out loud, but you continued to say every word to yourself. Chances are, you're still reading this way.

This means that you read only as fast as you talk. About 250 or 300 words per minute. (Guinness' Book of World Records lists John F. Kennedy as delivering the fastest speech on record; 327 words per minute.)

The Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Course teaches you to read without mentally saying each word to yourself. Instead of reading one word at a time, you'll learn to read groups of words.

To see how natural this is, look at the dot over the line in bold type.

grass is green

You immediately see all three words. Now look at the dot between the next two lines of type.

and it grows

when it rains

With training, you'll learn to use your innate ability to see groups of words.

As an Evelyn Wood graduate, you'll be able to read between 1000 and 3000 words per minute . . . depending on the difficulty of the material.

At 1000 words per minute, you'll be able to study/read the Biography of Albert Einstein and finish each 240 work page in 15 seconds.

At 2000 words per minute you'll absorb an entire issue of Time Magazine in 35 minutes.

At 3000 words per minute, you'll surprise yourself by reading the 499 pages of Exodus in 1 hour and 48 minutes.

These are documented statistics based on the results of the 450,000 people who have enrolled in the Evelyn Wood Course since its inception in 1959.

The course isn't complicated. There are no machines, no notes to take, and no memorizing.

95% of our graduates have improved their reading ability by an average of 4.7 times. Once in a while, a graduate's reading ability isn't improved by at least 3 times. The tuition is then completely refunded.

If you come to one of our free Mini-Lessons™ you'll see how speed reading works.

The Mini-Lesson is an hour-long peek at what the Evelyn Wood Course covers. We'll show you how it's possible to accelerate your speed without skipping a single word. You'll have a chance to try your hand at it. And before it's over, you'll actually increase your reading speed.

Environment Notes
In 1931, with much fanfare and optimism, the Delaware-Raritan Canal was inaugurated at Kingston, as a joint cargo and passenger-carrying waterway. Its adjacent towpaths were under constant scrutiny against erosion so that the mules which provided locomotion could pass safely.

The vagaries of commercial life soon intruded and by the end of the Civil War the operation was almost obsolete. In 1932, its locks dismantled, the Canal became a ward of the N.J. Dept. of Water Resources.

Today it is used to provide domestic and industrial water for several communities along its sixty mile route. But many area residents skimmed icy winter surface in bygone days, and today hike the leafy towpaths and canoe past the water-treading willows that lean pliantly over the shore. Few remnants of the past constitute such an important resource, with environmental and recreational values for the present and the future.

An application to designate the entire Canal a State and National asset is now before the N.J. Dept. of Environmental Protection. If it achieves such status, those who visualize the Canal as a receptacle for sewage, or a handy route for a highway, may be encouraged to look elsewhere.

"If you find a sacred forest crowded with old trees of great height with branches which with their layers of foliage block out the sky, the vigor of this arboreal growth, the mystery of the place, the density of the shadow in the midst of open country, imbues you with the idea of divine power."

Seneca, Letter to Lucilius, 30 A.D.

Varied Activities on University Campus Open to Public This Summer

Activities of interest to the Princeton community will be taking place this summer on the University Campus. These include daily student-conducted tours of the campus, offerings of Summer Intime, and a Program of Continuing Education, involving seven, week-long courses in subjects of technical interest to mid-career engineers, applied scientists, and industrial and corporate managers.

Information about these activities, as well as the visiting hours for the Art Museum, the University Natural History Museum in Guyot Hall, Prospect Gardens, Firestone Library and special events, may be obtained at the Guide Service Office in Stanhope Hall (452-3603) or from the main bulletin board in front of that office.

As an aid to visitor, maps of the Princeton University campus have been posted near Nassau Hall and at the Woodrow Wilson School Plaza, giving information about campus buildings and other matters. Continuing the policy adopted in 1970, in response to community concern over activities that had been taking place on the campus after dark, and upon the recent recommendation of the University's Committee on Relations with the Local Community, the University has announced that "from Friday, June 9, until September 5, although the University Campus is open to pedestrians, no one is permitted to sit or congregate on the lawn in the immediate vicinity of Nassau Hall and the Firestone Library after 8:30 p.m."

Accompanying this announcement is a University reminder that unlawful activities are prohibited on campus and violators are subject to arrest.

Notices have been posted at the Woodrow Wilson School Plaza, off Washington Road, to remind campus visitors that the reflecting pool is neither a wading nor a swimming pool and that the University buildings in the proximity of the pool are in use throughout the summer for student and faculty research, thus limiting the availability of those buildings to University-guided tours or to those on official University business. As a safety reminder, particularly for small children, the pool at the Woodrow Wilson School Plaza will be surrounded by a rope stanchion during the hot days of summer.

Notices posted on the campus invite those with comments or suggestions to address them to the Office of Community & Regional Affairs at 317 Nassau Hall.

SUMMER CLASSES LISTED

By Art Association. Four short but intensive classes, two outdoor, four evening, and three classes designed for young people will be offered this summer by the Princeton Art Association, starting June 19. Registration is now being accepted by the PA office at 3 Spring Street.

Arlene Smith, Chairman of the Art Department at the Princeton Day School, attended Pratt Institute, Instituto Allende, Mexico and is a member of the Art Students League. She will offer an intensive class in Life Drawing for high school students and adults.

Other intensive courses include choices in Weaving with Lore Lindendorf who studied design and weaving at Black Mountain College with Anni and Josef Albers. She designed textiles in industry for 10 years. Students will develop their own designs in her class.

Sharon Safran, Instructor in Princeton and Readington Schools and Director of the Crafts Program in Lawrence Senior High School, will offer a Printmaking class. Students will learn basic printing techniques. Classes begin June 19.

Margaret K. Johnson and Sue Howard combine instruction in Two and Three Dimensional Design, basic to Painting and Sculpture. This course begins July 10.

Outdoor Classes Scheduled. Outdoor classes include Drawing and Painting: Landscape with Ann Woolfolk starting June 21. A Figure and Landscape class with Rex Ashlock begins June 19. These classes will form at PAA but will meet at a specific location thereafter.

Evening classes include a Painting Workshop with Rex Ashlock, Drawing and Painting: Draped Figure and Nude with David Chapin, and a Life Drawing class with no instructor will have models scheduled by the PAA and a monitor appointed. These classes will begin in June. Marie Sturken's evening class in Printmaking will start July 17.

For young people age 12 and above, Yvonne Aronson, a potter, will encourage students to investigate a variety of hand building techniques using stoneware clay. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the ceramic process and on form and design rather than function. Classes start July 24.

A Creative Workshop for ages 11-14 will be held with Eileen Hohmuth, an instructor at Douglass, Lower School, Princeton Day School, and public schools in New York, Delaware and New Jersey. Students will work in a variety of media. Classes begin July 24.

For ages 7-10, there will be a Creative Workshop with Helen Schwartz, an instructor in the Princeton area for the past 10 years. Classes will explore drawing and color with paint, printing and various multi-media experiments. Classes begin July 25.

Registration for classes may be made now by mail, phone (921-9173) or in person at the PA headquarters, 3 Spring Street.

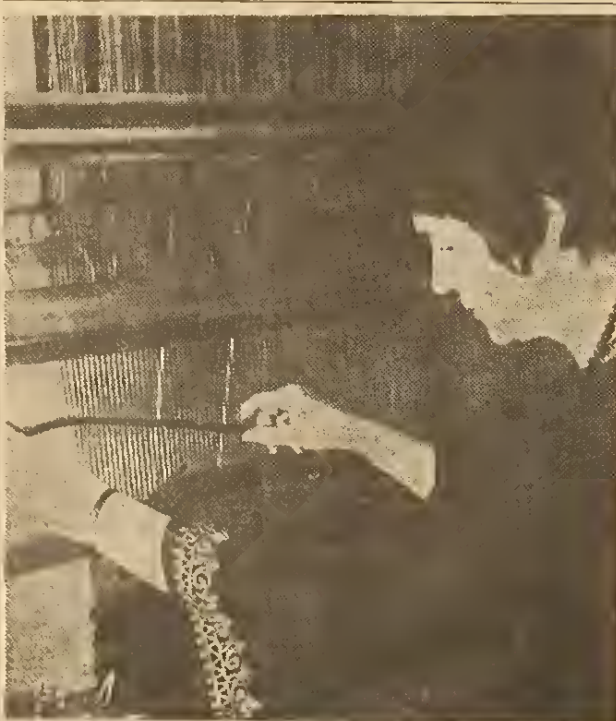

Host Families Needed

The Fresh Air Fund of Mercer County desperately needs host families for city children who would like to spend 2 weeks in the country.

The dates are July 5 to 19 or August 1 to 15. All medical and transportation expenses are paid for by the Fresh Air Fund.

Many children who would like to get out of the noisy, dirty, hot city will be disappointed this year unless more host families can be found.

For more information contact Linda Albert, 329-6619 or Katie Sexton, 799-0197.

WEAVER AT WORK: Lore Lindendorf will teach a course in weaving during the summer term offered by the Princeton Art Association. Full schedule of classes on page 24.

CHARLES S. ROBINSON MEMORIAL CONCERT

McCarter Theater

Friday, June 9, at 8:30 p.m.

We are delighted to report that the supply of tickets for this memorable event has been exhausted. We trust that any tickets which are not going to be used will be promptly returned to the McCarter Theatre box office so that they may be made available to some of the dozens of disappointed Princeton music-lovers.

BECAUSE THE BOMBING THROUGHOUT INDOCHINA
CONTINUES WITH MOUNTING INTENSITY,

BECAUSE PEOPLE ARE DYING EACH MINUTE AT THE HANDS OF OUR REFINED TECHNOLOGY,

BECAUSE OUR GOVERNMENT IS UNWILLING TO STOP THE CARNAGE,

BECAUSE BY NOVEMBER THERE MAY BE NOTHING

We, who live peacefully and well in this community, caring for our children, keeping our home in good repair, pursuing our professions, and planning vacations must STOP to make our feelings felt and our protest heard.

We ask the men and women of the greater Princeton community to peacefully gather with us at the steps of our local military installation . . . The Institute for Defense Analyses (IDA)* . . . on Monday, June 12th at noon:

To protest IDA's contribution to the development of the "electronic battlefield" which has been responsible for so much of the recent death and destruction in Indochina.

To demand that IDA redirect all of its energies to solving problems of life and peace.

To dedicate ourselves to further avenues of action to end our war.

It is no longer merely enough to give our passive support to others who act for our conscience. We must recognize the obligation of our individual and collective responsibility as our own government demanded in 1945 at Nuremberg.

* Partial listing of research papers in IDA annual report:

- 1) air sown mines for specialized purposes.
- 2) explosively produced flechettes.
- 3) a study of considerations in introducing new weapons into Southeast Asia.
- 4) a study of the worth of target kill assessment systems
- 5) comments on sensors and sensor programs for current use in Southeast Asia.

St. Lawrence University has conferred an honorary doctor of humane letters degree to Dr. Jeremiah S. Finch, 99 McCosh Circle, English professor and University secretary at Princeton University.

The citation reads in part: "Jerry Finch is an outstanding example of that 'rare avis', that rare bird who combines the finest qualities of teacher, scholar and administrator. Born in Albany and raised in the North Country, he required some 26 of our obdurate winters before migrating as far south as Princeton, New Jersey. There with his Cornell B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. in tow, this fledgling scholar of the English Renaissance launched forth into a career during which he himself would become one of the true Renaissance men in the profession."

Carolyn L. Johnson Doherty, daughter of Ernest F. Johnson, 90 Galbreath Drive, graduated with distinction, majoring in English. Nancy T. Flagg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Virginia Cole Schley, whose credits include an M.A. in Piano Performance from the Eastman School of Music, and the leading role in Howard

AMONG THE OFFICERS: Arthur Lithgow is vice-president in charge of production for The Princeton Opera Association.

Hanson's "Merrymount" at its debut over NBC-TV, will be auditions chairman. Carole Peterson Davis, Chairman of the Workshop, has been a performer with the Pennington Players, PJB, Princeton University Opera, and the Princeton Opera Association.

The Princeton Opera Association is New Jersey's oldest regularly performing opera company. Incorporated in 1961, its purpose is to provide performance opportunities for talented students and singers in this area. Along with its regular repertoire, its activities and special services include an opera workshop for developing talent, studio productions, student performances, consultation services and an artists' and lecturers' bureau.

Alumni of the company are currently singing with the Metropolitan Opera Studio, and with the Bonn Opera in Germany.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

By Opera Theatre. Harrison L. Weaver, President of Opera Theatre of New Jersey, has announced that the company has scheduled auditions for its apprentice program for this Friday, starting at noon at Symphony Hall in Newark, and for Saturday, in Trenton at the War Memorial Auditorium.

Candidates for audition should have completed their basic musical training and should have had some performance experience, which may be in the form of school or workshop performance. They should be currently working with a recognized music teacher, should have mastered several languages, preferably including Italian, and be ready to launch a serious career.

Opera Theatre's apprentice program, the only one of its kind in the United States, gives young artists the opportunity to perform for salary in every area of opera production and performance. Alfredo Silipigni, artistic director of the group, points out that this type of practical apprenticeship used to be available only in Europe.

Opera Theatre aims to help fill the need for in-theatre experience in this country, beyond the training available in schools and workshops. Its long-range aim is to help develop a new generation of American artists who do not necessarily have to go abroad for advanced musical preparation.

The apprentice program is financed in part by individual and corporate gifts, in part by state funds. The company has just received partial payment of a $50,000 state grant administered through the New Jersey Council of the Arts, slated to foster the apprentice program and student performances, and to extend the company's program into other areas of the state.

Opera Theatre is the first company in the past decade to have won a Class A rating from the Metropolitan Opera Central Rating Service, putting it on a level shared by the Metropolitan Opera Company and the other great opera houses of the country, including those of Chicago and San Francisco.

Newark auditions may be arranged through the Opera Theatre office (201-624-7745). Trenton auditions may be booked through Mrs. Pat Sano (587-8984).

Biological Gems Revealed in "Life in a Log"

EXPLORERS: Bernice and George Schwartz with their microscopes, find excitement in a rotting log, or swarming life in a drop of water. The Kingston writer-photographer team has just published "Life in a Log," using Princeton's outdoors as a laboratory.

Honey fungus around a tree-stump at Princeton Inn College...water fleas by the thousands in Lake Carnegie...salamander eggs in Harry's Brook...termites on a fallen log in Herrontown Woods....

Princeton teems with minute and microscopic life, and no one has more zest in searching it out than George and Bernice Schwartz, biologist-photographer-writers who have "retired" to the Princeton area.

Johnson Park. "Retirement" simply means that after 40-plus years as a biology teacher, George no longer meets regular classes. But boys and girls at Johnson Park School, Stuart Country Day, the Princeton public library have seen and felt the eagerness and excitement he brings to each new excursion into the woods, each new experience in learning about nature.

High-school biology students will soon be using his new text, "Patterns of Life," and this spring, young naturalists may pore over the pictures in "Life in a Log," as they read about the life that swarms in, over and around a decaying log.

"That book, 'Life in a Log' is for young readers, but older ones can profit from it," Mr. Schwartz says. "So many people are interested in ecology these days; well, I believe in a gentle and unobtrusive approach to ecology—not the horror-story stuff, or people could lose hope. I want to get a child to love the outdoors and ecology can go on from there."

As a teacher—and he will always be that, even in retirement ("And a learner...I'm always learning something new!")—George Schwartz' pet project is to get biology teachers to use small, plentiful organisms as teaching tools for their pupils.

"With a hand-lens that costs about $1.50, a child can see organisms like daphnia, the water flea," he says, and eagerly he whips out a small lens from his pocket, "every child should carry one of these—fascinating for bugs, small flowers, minute organisms."

Lake Carnegie. Daphnia is "my favorite organism," Mr. Schwartz explains, not only because it is plentiful, (try a plankton net in Lake Carnegie some time, and you'll see) but because its heart is not unlike a human heart, because it reacts to drugs like caffeine, aspirin or "No-doz", because it gives birth to live young.

"With daphnia," and Mr. Schwartz has missionary zeal, "you can show a student the effect of drugs on the body because you can easily see what a drug does to daphnia! And do you know that the way white blood cells in humans fight bacteria was first discovered through daphnia?"

Wildlife Refuge. Children have also learned, with Mr. Schwartz, what you can find at hand on dry land.

"Bernice and I turned over stones in the Wildlife Refuge—and found three young snakes. We photographed them and put the stones carefully back."

"Life in a Log" is almost a biology course in itself. Using fallen logs in Herrontown Woods, around Kingston (where the Schwartzes live), the writer-photographers describe not only the life itself as it feeds on the log, but the life-cycle of the log.

Herrontown Woods. "In Princeton's climate, a fallen log is back in the soil within ten years after it has fallen," the biologist explains. "It is a food source and a dwelling place for..."

Bark beetles, the fungi they bring, scorpions, millipedes, centipedes, engraver beetles whose tracery would make for a fine woodblock engraving, salamanders, termites and even the protozoa that live in a termite's intestine.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT For Red Cross Programs. For those youths having trouble getting a job this summer, there are many opportunities in this area for youth volunteers in Red Cross-sponsored programs.

In the list which follows, pertinent information is given about each program.

1. Mercer County Center for Retarded Children: is a camp for children in the several stages of mental retardation. Volunteers work with the same group of children 9-2:30, two days or more per week. Activities include trips, arts and crafts, swimming, music, and academics. Volunteers should be high school age.

2. Lawrence Township Special Education: neurologically impaired children are paired each with one high school volunteer each day (Monday thru Friday) from 9 till noon. The aide works with the child throughout an academic day each day.

3. Mercer County Day Camp: at Rider College is also for mentally retarded children, and operates like the Center for Retarded Children. Junior or Senior High School.

4. Princeton Recreation Department: uses youth volunteers of middle or upper school age to work in the parks program in arts & crafts, music, or anything the volunteer can do.

5. Migrants' Clinic: in Cranbury helps adults get medical attention. Meanwhile volunteers are used to entertain their children while they are in the clinic. This is on Wednesday evenings, and volunteers may be middle or upper school age. We also need youth to work with older migrant children.

6. Day Care Centers: always need help caring for their students. Volunteers may be of any age and can work their own hours.

7. Walton Army Hospital: serves active servicemen and women and their families. Volunteers work in clinics, wards, recreation, etc., but must be 15 years old. Transportation is provided on Mondays.

8. Nursing Homes: help the elderly in many many ways and always need youth volunteers to carry out the many duties which must be done, including recreation, therapy, nurses' aides, and general cheer!

9. Elderly residents: will be receiving help from Red Cross youth at a luncheon in July and also working on a Bazaar for September. All ages can help with this.

10. Norwood Manor: is a home for the elderly who do not need nursing care, but they do need visitors and cheer. Volunteers are needed to play Bingo with the residents and talk and just be friends!

11. Red Cross Chapter House: needs volunteers to help with general office work and help with the many programs of Red Cross. All ages.

12. Harry's Brook Land Use Survey: is ascertaining the needs of this local stream. Volunteers interview residents along the stream and then compile the information.

Those interested in these programs should call Mrs. Sally Groden, the Red Cross Youth Director, at 924-2404.

SUMMER SESSIONS SET

In West Windsor. The West Windsor - Plainsboro Regional School Board has approved two five-week summer school sessions to be conducted at the Maurice Hawk School from July 5 through August 9. Class ses will begin at 8:30 and end at 11:30.

A summer remediation program will be offered to improve the student's skills in reading and mathematics by providing each child with an individualized program of instruction, supplemented with stimulating experiences, in an informal and relaxed atmosphere.

Students for this program will be selected by their teachers on the basis of their needs in these subject areas. Class size will range from 10 to 12 students when possible. An additional program will be offered to provide students with an opportunity to investigate in depth subjects of interest that could not be pursued during the regular school year.

Class size in this enrichment program will range from 10 to 20 students, depending upon the areas of interest selected and the number of students that elect to participate.

The program will feature a flexible schedule, cooperative teaching, individual research in areas selected by the students and field trips to museums, libraries, planetariums and other areas of interest.

Students in the enrichment program will be selected for participation by their classroom teachers on the basis of their outstanding performance throughout the 1971-72 school year.

Glenda Richards Ends 42 Years of Making Latin a Live Subject

To see my students do well — that's the most rewarding aspect of teaching, for me." Glenda Richards, retiring this June from the Latin Department of Princeton High School, has seen her Latin students do well at Princeton High for 29 years.

Brisk, brusque, a cheerful and bright-eyed disciplinarian, trim of figure with a cap of white curls, Glenda Richards is every inch the proud school teacher: "I've fought 42 years for my subject! she smiles, in oblique comment on the present state of Latin study in many public high schools.

At Princeton High — and even in the Middle School — Latin has flourished under Mrs. Richards. "I don't know of any public high school in New Jersey where students may take Latin V," she says with pride, "and this year, I have such an excellent class in Latin V! We've been able to do four books of Horace's Odes — I've never had a class before in which we could do four — and of course, Catullus . . . Students who've had this class, can go right into sophomore or junior year Latin in college."

Because Latin is not a required subject in Princeton's schools, Mrs. Richards has highly-motivated students who are there because they want to be.

"We sit here in my office," and she smilingly indicates the pleasant, scholarly room with its framed citations and its prints and photographs depicting the ancient world "and we get to work!"

Awards and prizes are an accepted part of life in Mrs. Richards' classes. "Now here is our certificate from Montclair State Latin contest. We've won more victories than any school in the state: 11 victories and five honorable mentions in 1963-64-65. We were the highest team in New Jersey in Vergil and Caesar in 1963, with second place in Cicero . . ."

"And the Henry Martyn Bair Memorial Latin Sight-reading Contest — 1,300 students from this whole northeastern seaboard enter that contest — we were the winning team for this region in Latin 3-4 in 1959. In 1961, we took the Gold Key for the best individual paper in Latin 2 . . ."

And so it goes.

As an enthusiastic fighter for my subject," Mrs. Richards has gone beyond the high school's standard classrooms. To the Middle School, for example.

At 7:30 each morning for the past two years, (the program itself is about four years old), Mrs. Richards has walked briskly into a Middle School class of 7th and 8th-graders, introducing them to "my subject."

It's like a one-room school: from 7:30 to 8, she teaches the eighth-graders while the seventh-graders study. Then at 8, the roles are reversed.

"This spring, I gave those eight-graders a standard high school Latin test and I've never had such high scores!" she says with pleasure.

At the Latin Honor Awards Tea in April of this year, 27 of the seventh and eighth grade Latin students received award for having achieved an "A" or a "B".

AVE ATQUE VALE! Glenda Richards will retire this June from the Princeton school system. She has taught Latin at Princeton High School for the past 29 years. This portrait photograph was taken by her husband, the photographer Alan Richards.

Other innovations of Mrs. Richards are two courses in classical civilization for students who aren't taking Latin. One is "Classical Humanities," in which students read Greek and Latin literature in translation. The other is "Classical Archaeology," and Mrs. Richards says no other public high school has such a course.

"We just had the final exam," my students were asked to identify 140 slides of Rome and the surrounding area."

Mrs. Richards also instituted a monthly lecture series which has drawn Princeton's scholars to the high school for the past 29 years, allowing them to share their knowledge with the students and savor the youthful enthusiasm of the next generation of scholars.

"And I've always had a Greek club, although we don't teach Greek here. Latin students who want Greek — and sometimes there are as many as five — go to the University."

It is archaeology, rather than linguistics, that sparks Mrs. Richards' enthusiasm for Latin. On a Fulbright fellowship, she spent the summer of 1955 at the American Academy in Rome: "We visited everything of archaeological importance

In 1960, she went to the American School in Athens, touring Greece and the islands on an archaeology study-holiday.

Last summer, she was in Sicily. "You see more of Greek culture in Sicily than you do in Greece! I'd never realized it before!"

Travel is a second life for Mrs. Richards, and for her husband, the photographer Alan Richards whom she married in 1946. On June 30, her office-classroom door firmly locked behind her, she will travel with Mr. Richards on the "Gripsholm," making a 48-day cruise to northern Europe.

"Doing things together," she smiles, "that's what my husband and I look forward to after I retire. So many things, like travel and lectures, we haven't had time for while I was teaching."

At home during her teaching years, Mrs. Richards found time to make all her own clothes ("I've just begun to make my own suits — after I took a wonderful tailoring course . . .") (and to do the kind of fine needlepoint that harmonizes with the English heirloom furniture in the Richards' home.

Mr. Richards' professional skill as a photographer provided the black-and-white photographs on three walls of a Latin classroom. But when it comes to those slides of Rome and Naples, Athens and Sicily, the ones the students had to identify for their final exam, Mrs. Richards says proudly, "I took those myself!"

son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. McLoughlin of 37 Hodge Road, was the officer of the deck aboard the destroyer USS Hamner when his lookouts spotted a descending parachute a mile away over the waters of the Tonkin Gulf. Lieutenant McLoughlin acted quickly, ordering his ship to continue firing at shore targets while speeding to the rescue of an American pilot just outside Haiphong harbor.

The pilot was injured by anti-aircraft fire, during the ejection and splashdown but spent only eight minutes in the water before rescue by the Hamner with Lieutenant McLoughlin temporarily in charge. President Nixon sent his congratulations to the Hamner for its outstanding work.

Lieutenant McLoughlin is a 1966 graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, and a 1970 graduate of Harvard.

Mrs. Ruth B. Ekstrom, 78 Westerly Road, a research psychologist for the Educational Testing Service, has been elected to the Board of Trustees of Brown University.

A 1953 graduate of Pembroke, she received an M.Ed. from Boston University in 1956 and an Ed.D. from Rutgers in 1967. She was a visiting lecturer at Rutgers University from 1958 to 1960 and is the author of several professional articles.

Mrs. Ekstrom is a former president of both the Pembroke College Club of New Jersey and the Pembroke Club of Boston. Twice in recent years, she has been cited for outstanding work as a class agent for the Pembroke College Fund. She is married to Lincoln Ekstrom, a 1953 graduate of Brown.

The Governor's VIEW

By Gov. William T. Cahill

While the cost of just about every service or product we use has been rising steadily, education is unquestionably the single public service that has escalated the most rapidly in the last dozen years.

For far too long, education failed to receive the priority it deserved, and in far too many cases, underpaid teachers helped subsidize lower tax rates by struggling in outmoded buildings to educate our children.

Enormous strides have been made to correct these conditions and to improve the quality of education in our state. But we've had to pay the price. That price has been an almost constant rise for the past decade in our local property taxes.

In most municipalities throughout the state, the cost of operating our local schools accounts for approximately 60 per cent of money raised by local taxation. Since real estate is the principal source of local revenues, it means that most of the cost of education is borne by the property owner. This cost has become burdensome—some think unbearably so—and, unfortunately, all experts agree that it can only become worse under our present tax set up.

New Approach Needed. That's why the Tax Policy Committee has recommended a whole new approach to our problem of financing education, one that will free us from a system where very often those who can least afford to pay, pay the most. The effective tax rate for families with income under $3,000 is 14.6 per cent while families with incomes in excess of $25,000 pay only 3.3 per cent of it in taxes.

The most practical, viable answer is for the state to take over the responsibility of financing the schools. This is really the essence of the Tax Reform program which I have recommended to the Legislature. Taxation for school purposes would be levied by the state at the rate of $1 for each $100 of assessed valuation on real property, and it would be pegged at this level by constitutional amendment to insure against future increases.

Since this would raise less than the amount now being raised by the local districts, the difference would be made up by a graduated income tax. This would then place the cost of government where it belongs, on those who can best afford to pay.

The most frequently raised objection I've heard is the fear that this plan would mean the end of local control of schools. This is a condition the Tax Committee has carefully considered, and, I believe, fully insured against. The proposed law provides for local boards of education to carry on the functions they now perform. They would continue to hire teachers, to establish budgets to plan facilities now assigned to them.

Under the new arrangement, school financing will be based on a per-pupil cost, averaged throughout the state. This means that instead of having rich districts and poor districts, we will eliminate the poor districts. District's spending more than the state average per pupil will be permitted to continue. In addition, districts desiring to spend more than the state allocation will be able to do so, provided it is first approved by the voters of the district. What we are doing, in effect, is putting a floor on our educational financing.

We are saying that no child will receive a substandard education just because he lives in a poor district. At the same time, we are removing the burden of financing education from local properties, while leaving the authority for deciding the educational process at the local level where it belongs.

While state financing of schools will be the principal thrust in reducing property taxes, there will be other factors. The two principal ones will be assumption of state responsibility for welfare and for most of our judicial system.

I firmly believe that public welfare is the responsibility of the Federal Government. But until the Federal Government recognizes and accepts that responsibility, I agree with the Tax Policy Committee that the state should remove this expensive burden from the counties and municipalities. In addition to relieving property taxes, it will permit the introduction of administrative efficiencies by centralizing what is now an extremely fragmented program.

Similar opportunities for efficiencies are presented by the state, rather than the counties, funding the major portion of our judicial system including the offices of the county prosecutors and their assistants, and the probation services which are desperately in need of standardized and modernized methods of procedure.

The effect of these changes will be to relieve property taxes of all except the funding of what are, essentially, county and municipal services.

The Rising Generation

Student Involvement

By Dr. Patricia Wertheimer

One of the things about youth that is very apparent here in Princeton is the desire of students to be involved in substantive ways in the life of the school and the community. The extent to which students are involved has been one of the most rewarding aspects of my year at the high school.

From many points of view, one can see this. I have found a great deal of this kind of involvement at Princeton High School this year: a sit-in or two from one group, a rally from another, various petitions and similar efforts, as well as changes made by student and student-faculty groups.

I think this is a tremendously healthy kind of thing. Of course, some of these expressions of interest may be awkward, sometimes are very disorganized and initially unproductive because students don't know the most effective procedures. I take it as one of the tasks of the school to help students organize themselves productively to work within orderly means to make changes. These thrusts from students can be very alarming to those of us who represent The Establishment, but they shouldn't be—we should be more alarmed at apathy.

Student Council this year has been exceptionally active in substantive issues. They've been concerned about curriculum, staffing and programming, about the educational value of examinations and how exams can be managed so that they are educationally useful. They've been concerned about the computation of grades and the function grades serve in the schools. I think that, compared to organized student groups in other high schools, this Student Council is very serious, very concerned about taking a stand, even though Council members themselves have expressed some dissatisfaction with their effectiveness.

I've been working with a group of faculty and students to develop a system for participatory governance in the school which we hope to begin to implement next year. I find that kids want very much to work with adults: the governance group wants to have students AND TEACHERS in the policy-making body; students working with teachers, to get to know them as people.

Student involvement in the recent Vietnam issues has been, by and large, tremendously productive. The Candlelight Peace March was organized by students, supervised by students and was an impressive piece of work.

Another very important student accomplishment: two different student groups worked out evaluation forms for students and teachers to use in evaluating courses. Many teachers are now using these forms to get feedback from students about their courses.

Some students do feel left out. For example, I think black students feel "out." There is a general feeling among black students that the school represents the white community, is oriented to white students and not as responsive as it could be to black students' needs.

I've talked with black students about forming some kind of black students' league, to give them a way to organize their concerns. It just hasn't happened yet, but I hope it will. This spring, some black students had concerns about hiring more black staff, and about insensitivity to black students and, as this process evolved, they sent representatives to speak for the larger group. I look on this as a beginning.

There are students, white and black, who just don't know the best ways to make their opinions felt and they are discouraged. Not everyone knows how to get his feelings across, and if the students aren't telling you, you don't know!

I wish students could be more involved than they are in various discipline problems. Kids are concerned about theft, vandalism, false fire-alarms, but by and large, they haven't taken any responsibility in helping to deal with these problems. They may be afraid of reprisals, and may feel discouraged about how effective they could be. In this respect, students are not a great deal different from many of us adults.

The overall point I want to make, is that if we are serious about real student involvement, we must expect some abrasiveness, some friction, some disorganization, but if student involvement is to be more than a docile acceptance of things as they are, we've got to find ways of making room for these activities.

More Moon Rocks On Way Here to Be Analyzed

In the near future Lincoln S. Hollister, 33-year-old Associate Professor of Geological and Geophysical Sciences at Princeton University, will be handed a small, brown cardboard box by the postman.

Rubber stamped, "Deliver to addressee only," and airmailed from Houston, Texas, Dr. Hollister's package will contain the first of some 5 or 6 moon rocks, or pieces of slivers of moon rocks, each separately encased in a nitrogen-filled polyethylene bag. Hollister will remove each bag and lock it away in a safe in a locked closet in Guyot Hall where it will remain between laboratory examinations.

The Apollo 16 astronauts collected some 212 to 240 pounds of moon rocks, the largest haul from any Apollo mission to date. Some 175 other researchers around the country and abroad, including astrophysicists, other geologists, chemists, physicists, astronomers and even a radio astronomer or two, will be opening packages identical to the one sent to the Princeton geologist.

What was there for the taking on the moon will be dispersed on earth, with the exception of that withheld and stored in nitrogen-filled bags in the Curator's Office of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center for future researchers as additional techniques and new ideas become available.

Origin of the Moon. Dr. Hollister and his co-workers will analyze the samples for type and mineral content while deducing their probable history by drawing analogies to rocks on earth.

Though their task is to compile and publish complete descriptions and analyses of the rocks and minerals themselves, their objective, in common with that of the other researchers, is to compile enough information to be able to make a convincing inference about the origin of the moon, and thus about the origin of the earth, and thus about the origin of the solar system.

For each rock Dr. Hollister receives, he will also have on hand a list of others who have samples from the same rock. If the rock proves puzzling or unusual, he calls whoever is dating the rock, or the specialists who are studying trace elements or stable isotopes, or the experimental petrologist who is trying to reproduce the rock in the laboratory to learn more about the conditions of its formation.

He may also go next door to consult with Robert B. Hargraves, Princeton Professor of Geological and Geophysical Sciences, who is studying the magnetic properties of the moon rocks, as well as helping with the analyses of the minerals.

"Green Cheese." To make their findings quickly available to other moon researchers, the Princeton group must maintain a rapid publication schedule, "considerably faster than is usually done," Dr. Hollister says. Moon rocks from Apollo 11, the first manned moon mission, arrived in Princeton in November of 1969. "Then," he says, "we could have been starting off with green cheese."

Still, the findings were published in the January 4, 1971 issue of Science. The pace has accelerated since then. Findings from a sand-like grain weighing .00042 grams, borne to earth by the Russian Luna 16 were in press by November 14, 1971, two months after its arrival in Princeton.

The Luna 16 sample and a sliver of moon rock number 15415, the now famous Genesis rock some 4.1 billion years old, arrived simultaneously. By November 15, Princeton's contribution to the Genesis rock studies was in press.

By now Dr. Hollister is an old hand at moon rocks. "They come in two categories," he explains, "basalts and breccias. A basalt is a crystalline rock which was once molten, and a breccia is a compacted mass of many different rock fragments, mineral fragments and dust particles all solidified into rock."

Apollo 11, 12 and 15, landing on the lunar maria, produced mainly basalts; Apollo 15 produced mainly breccias. One surprise from Apollo 14 was that the breccias were breccias of breccias, containing fragments compacted at different times. It appears that Apollo 16 rocks will be more of the same, breccias.

Dating Techniques. "The record we don't have anywhere," says Hollister, "is what happened during the first half billion years of the solar system. We don't have it on earth. We're not likely to get it from Mars."

Our best likelihood is to get it from the moon. But radioactive dating techniques put the breccias at some 3.9 billion years; the basalts are younger, between 3.3 and 3.6 billion years, while the solar system originated some 4.5 billion years ago."

Dr. Hollister believes that the breccias actually contain fragments which suggest a longer history than 3.9 billion years. "We could find material that has been formed previous to 3.9 billion years," he explains, "but we may not be able to recognize it from the standard dating techniques. Later events might have reset the radioactive dating clocks, but all the minerals and the chemistry of the minerals may still be relic from an earlier history."

His moon rock analysis makes Dr. Hollister lean toward the side of the cold moon with an outer molten layer. Much like ice on a lake, the outer part of the crust would begin to solidify first and become progressively thicker.

Eventually a thin molten layer at the bottom between the originally solid interior and the solidified crust would remain. Super heating of this deep molten layer by heat produced from radio active decay would cause it to burst through the crust, resulting in a filling up of the maria basins and crystallization of the basalts.

Dr. Hollister, a native of Rochester, Minn., received his A.B. from Harvard in 1961, his Ph.D. in Geology and Geochemistry from the California Institute of Technology in 1966. After a three-year teaching appointment at UCLA, he was appointed Assistant Professor of Geological and Geophysical Sciences at Princeton in 1969.

Between the semester's end and the arrival of his first Apollo 16 moon package, Hollister is going on a rock-collecting foray of his own. Together with some graduate students and co-workers, he'll spend a week in upstate New York collecting anorthosites and related rocks, amongst the oldest rocks on earth and very similar to moon rocks; but some 3 billion years younger.

HUN WINS STATE TITLE
The Hun School is the 1972 New Jersey Independent School state baseball champion.

Coach Bill McQuade in his first year as coach grabbed the brass ring Thursday when Hun scored a run in the last inning at the Peddie School diamond to upset the defending champion, St. Benedict's of Newark, 3-2. St. Benedict's had won the title nine out of the last eleven years, defeating Hun in the final last year, 7-0.

For McQuade and the Hun squad, it was a glowing ending to an "incredible year." The state crown was Hun's first ever. Just last week, it had defeated Germantown Friends to win the championship of the Penn-Jersey League for the second year in a row. Hun ended 13-3.

The season had started badly when Hun, the favorite, was shocked by Pennington, 16-12, in extra innings. "A lot of people didn't think we would win anything after that," said McQuade. "But the boys stuck it out; everybody came up with the big game when we needed it."

"I was really proud of them. Especially after the second Pennington game. (Hun won that "must" game when Chuck Sista pitched a two-hitter.) After that, I thought we could go all the way."

Three Hun Triples. Against St. Benedict's, Hun scored the winning run when shortstop Pete Jones tripled over the left fielder's head, scoring Al Chalifoux. It was one of three triples in the game by Hun. Hun got its first run in the second when Chuck Sista tripled home Greg Rafalski who had walked. In the fourth, Dennis Skrajewski singled, Sista walked and Dave Hock singled.

Hock (3-1) was the winning pitcher. He struck out three and walked only one. "That was the big thing," said McQuade.

St. Benedict's collected both its runs in the third when it sandwiched a single between a pair of triples. Both teams had six hits. "Commenting on the five triples in the game, McQuade remarked: 'I've never seen so many long balls hit out; it seems as if every time the ball was hit, it was either a dribbler or a triple.

HAPPY WINNERS: State Championship in prep school baseball is celebrated by Hun School team after 3-2 victory over St. Benedict's Prep of Newark. Hun players surrounding trophy are Kevin Tylus, Chuck Sista, Greg Rafalski, Alan Chalifoux, Charles Figueroa, Dennis Skrajewski and Peter Jones, who hit game-winning triple.

For the Gray Bees (12-5) it was a sad ending to an illustrious diamond career. It was their last hurrah, since the school is closing its doors forever after this season because of financial difficulties. A writer for Sports Illustrated who has written an article on St. Benedict's was there to cover the last game and update his story.

Jones Batted .423. Three players ended the season for Hun batting over .400: Pete Jones, whom McQuade described before the start of the season as a "pro prospect" led the list with .423. Rafalski batted .420 and Skrajewski, .408. Chalifoux ended batting .388 and Dave Pone had a .304 mark. Sista finished just under .300.

"They were the ones who carried the team the whole season," said McQuade. Chalifoux and Skrajewski were co-captains.

Pone, Rafalski and Paul Creamer, a pitcher, will return next year, the latter two as co-captains. "I've got a nucleus up the middle," reported McQuade, plus a lot of the second team coming back. If we get some new pitching, we should be in pretty good shape again."

Some younger players mentioned by McQuade who will help keep the Red and Black banner flying are Bobby McHugh, John Soderman, Kevin Rafalski, and Scott Barton.

Meanwhile, McQuade is enjoying the heady feeling that comes with being a champion. "It was a great year," he agreed. "I couldn't be happier being at Hun or the way things turned out."

Sometimes, Leo, nice guys finish first.

FRESHMAN FOUR WINS

In National Rowing Regatta. Four members of the Princeton freshman 150-lb. crew made a vastly better showing in the national rowing regatta at Syracuse last week than any of the heavyweight shells.

The quartet of members of the Class of 1975, a late entry, triumphed in the finals Saturday, winning by two lengths over Santa Clara, with UCLA, Wisconsin, MIT and Syracuse trailing. The freshmen 'fifties, rowing as an eight-oared crew, won the Eastern Sprint title last May at Worcester.

No other Princeton boat qualified for the finals. The varsity was last (in a field of six) in its opening heat Thursday.

essential to qualify for the finals.

Pennsylvania was the victor, Saturday, winning the national title when it broke in front and stayed there for the full 2,000 meters. Brown, a far cry from ranking as a rowing power a decade ago, surprised with a second place finish.

Best overall showing was recorded by the University of Wisconsin, which won the Ten Eyck Memorial Trophy on total points.

LEADER CORPS ACTIVE

In Community Tennis. More than 50 members of the Silver, Gold and Advanced Tennis Tournament Group met last week to plan for an active summer of instruction, teaching and competition.

Any student who is in Silver, Gold or the Advanced Tournament Group who has reached 8th grade or above is qualified to apply for the Leader Corps program. A trainee must donate 50 hours of apprentice time before he is eligible for a paid job. Each year, his salary increases as he becomes more experienced.

Trainees who complete their 50 hours of volunteer work this spring were awarded pins at the meeting. Those who received them were: Charles Liffand, Martha Batchelor, Cindy Blum, Michael Clohosey, Ann Magee, Bill Broad and David Bowen.

Over 90 junior high, high school and college students participated in the tennis teaching program this spring. A similar number will be employed during the summer.

In addition to helping in the program, Princeton's young teacher corps will be traveling to West Windsor, Twin Rivers, and Freehold to assist with the conduct of similar group instruction programs in these communities.

Chairman of the Leader Corps this year will be Ann Wiser, assisted by Vickie Flournoy and Anne Rimalover. Mrs. Karen Bull is the staff supervisor of the Leader Corps.

The final summer organization meeting of the Leader Corps will be held Friday, June 16th, at 3:30 in Community Park, to receive assignments before classes begin on June 19. Those who would like further information about the Leader Corps or on registering for summer classes should obtain a brochure at the Princeton Recreation Office, any sporting goods store; Hinkson's, or from

Summer Lacrosse to Start

LUCAR, WILL'S LEAD

In W. Windsor League. Will's Shell and Lucar Hardware scored easy victories in last week's opening games in the West Windsor Babe Ruth Baseball League on the Hawk School diamond.

Will's defeated the Lions Club nine, 18-2, in the opener and Lucar blanked Harbour Air Freight, 13-0, in the second game.

Mike Shaddow went all the way on the mound for Will's, striking out eight and limiting the Lions to five scattered singles.

After the Lions took the lead for two innings by virtue of a run in the first, Will's blew open the game with nine runs in the third, then added three more runs in the fourth and sewed it up with six more in the fifth.

Leading the hitting parade for Will's were Tom Murphy with a triple and a double, Scott Bruno with a double and a single, and pitcher Shaddow with two singles.
In Lucar's victory, pitcher Mark Diezemann gave up only two hits, singles by David Bornheimer and Dave Duncan, as he held Harbort scoreless. Lucar jumped into a 3-0 lead in the first inning on three walks, a wild pitch and a single by Billy Schroeder that drove in two runs. It added another run in the third and eight more in the fourth as Richard Sanders and Joey Czeslowski each collected two singles, while Dave Howard, Don Hutchinson and pitcher Diezemann added a single apiece. Lucar's scoring closed with a run in the fifth on a hit batsman, a stolen base and a passed ball.

LAST MEET RAINED OUT
In Girls' Track, Princeton High School girls' track coach Lamont Fletcher, who saw more meets rained out or cancelled this year than he cared to remember, was victimized again last week when rain forced the cancellation of Wednesday's final dual meet with Pennsbury.
Pennsbury was en route to Princeton when the heavens opened up. The Little Tigers did manage to get in seven meets, winning four and losing three.

TENNIS STARTS MONDAY
For Juniors, The Princeton junior tennis championships for boys and girls 16 and under, and 18 and under will start Monday at the Community Park courts.
Deadline for entries is Friday at 5. They should be mailed or taken to the Princeton Recreation Department in Township Hall. All first round entries should report the first day promptly at 1:30.

In Sunday's races in the Sunfish class, Bob Holzman won three races in conditions he likes best — heavy winds — to regain first place in the standings. Walt Gibson retained second place but Ed Metcalf drop-

The Poventud family continued its domination in the Sloup class. Hector Poventud captured three races before turning the helm over to son Matthew, who won another first and a second. Frank Ridgway won his first race of the season in the last event.

ADULT CLASS ADDED
To Meet Tennis Demand. A new class for adults has been added to the schedule of the Princeton Community Tennis Program to meet the demand. CLARKE FIELD SITE will play its first game Sunday at the University's Clarke Field when it opposes Ewing Post 314. Starting time is 1:45.
Of First Princeton Legion Game. Princeton's new entry into Legion baseball, Post 76,

FAILS TO PLACE
In State Track Meet. Lou Drury, Princeton High School's lone entry in the NJSIAA state track meet at Highland Park Saturday, failed to place in his event, the discus.
According to coach Larry Ivan, Lou threw 139-4, well below the winning toss of 168-3. Mercer County schools failed to produce a single champion in the meet, won by Montclair High School. Closest to an individual crown was Gene Butler of Ewing, who finished a

Coaches' Jobs to Be Advertised Every Two Years
Under a new plan announced by Associate Superintendent Wesley Johnson, all extra pay for extra services and stipend appointments in the Princeton Regional School system will be re-advertised every other year. More than 80 positions are funded under the EPES contract — the largest majority consisting of coaches.
The major reason for the plans, Johnson said, is to ensure that EPES activities will continue to be conducted at the highest level of competence. While the plan will not preclude reappointment of incumbent teachers, Johnson said, it will provide an opportunity for all other staff members to apply and to be considered on a competitive basis.
Positions currently waiting to be filled are: four assistant football coaches at a salary of $1,050; varsity soccer coach ($903) and two assistants ($632); assistant wrestling coach ($890); girls' gymnastics head coach ($873) and assistant ($611), and a girls' assistant field hockey coach ($590). All coaching applicants must be certified as a teacher and a member of the Regional School system.

Survey Supports Wood. For outside support, Wood conducted a survey. Of the 287 schools in the state with athletic programs, he sent questionnaires to 28 coaches of schools PHS has played in football and 72 more to a random sampling of coaches. Sixty-one of 100 replied.

Of these, said Wood, 80 percent said that disciplinary action was made by the coach;

five percent said it was handled by the principal. In addition, Wood reported that he sent a statement to 23 coaches in the Princeton school system, asking them to check whether each wanted to discipline his own squad and do his own suspending and dismissing, or whether he wanted the principal to make such decisions.

Eighteen said they wanted to make their own discipline. Two said no two were no decisions; three said the principal.

"If 18 coaches think discipline should be handled by the coaches, if 80 percent of the coaches in the state think the same way, you mean six administrators can't look at this and read something from these figures?" asked Wood.

He reported that when he handed the figures in, the only response from Wesley Johnson, associate superintendent and co-chairman of the Special Committee, was to demand, "Who did all this?" and "Just because 80 percent of the schools are wrong doesn't mean that Princeton High School has to be wrong, too." "I think they have to look at the whole thing. At least look and listen to what other people say," commented Wood. "Look at the results and if I think you should look it over again before you do it." He reported that the only board member who has discussed the situation at all within was Winthrop Pike.

"They want control. Shoot, they've got control. They can tell me at the end of the season I'm through but they want minute-to-minute control on the field."

Domino Effect? An informal poll among varsity coaches at PHS has indicated to Wood that if the football coaches quit, there would be a domino effect. Not all, but other coaches have told him, he said, that they would quit rather than coach under the discipline restrictions.

If it goes, a sizeable program will collapse. Interscholastic sports at PHS comprise 13 boys' varsity sports (12 now that ice hockey has been dropped because of an inability to find a coach and for financial reasons) and seven girls' varsity sports. A total of 53 teams — freshman, sophomore, junior varsity and varsity — participated last year in 852 different athletic events, involving 883 students.

Comprehensive as this system is, it is also on a treadmill to mediocrity. Lest anyone doubt that interscholastic sports are on a decline at PHS, one only has to check the records of recent years in football, basketball, baseball, track, lacrosse, soccer, hockey and wrestling. All have had losing seasons. Exceptions are the tennis and golf teams.

In a January memo to all PHS coaches, the athletic director wrote: "The student-athlete today is knowledgeable in school policies and procedures. It is ludicrous to believe that he will not recognize the newly advocated suspension procedures as showing a lack of respect and confidence in the schools' coaches."

Surely this type of organizational structure will put our interscholastic athletic program on a precarious path leading to destruction in a very few years."

Members of the Special Committee on the School Sports Program are: Norman Van Arsdalen and Wesley Johnson, co-chairmen; Florence Burke and Virginia Euell — all of the administration; coaches Richard Wood, Marvin Trotman, Lawrence Ivan and Joyce Jones; students Dorothy Alexander, Carrie Bolster, Gilman Spencer, Anthony Towns; and parents Malcolm Diamond, Sanford Reynolds, Charles Streeter and Anne Wells.

MORE TEEN TENNIS

For West Windsor. With the appointment of Dave Taggart as director of its Summer Tennis Program, the West Windsor Recreation Committee has announced the expansion of its program for West Windsor Teens. Matches with groups in nearby communities will be scheduled at the conclusion of the program which begins the week of June 26th.

Taggart, from Kansas City, is a junior at Princeton University. His experience includes varsity play. With the assistance of Leslie Aldridge, he is conducting the successful West Windsor women's tennis classes. Because of the enthusiasm with which these classes have been received, the program has been extended an additional two weeks.

Registration for the youth programs will be accepted on Saturday, from 11 to 1 at the Township Meeting Room in the basement of the building adjacent to the West Windsor Public Library. In addition registration for the teen classes will be accepted at the Teen Activities Meeting which is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church.

BEST SEASON RECORDED

By PDS in Sports. Princeton Day School has completed its best season ever in varsity sports competition, compiling a record of 67 wins, 39 losses and four ties for a percentage of .632.

The soccer team finished with the best record of any Panther team, a 12-1-1 mark, and captured the state Class B independent school championship plus a post-season tourney sponsored by Rutgers Prep.

The tennis teams, although beaten again by arch rival Princeton High School, finished 10-1, continuing its string of fine season records. As he predicted, coach Alan Taback brought a turn-around in PDS basketball fortunes, leading the Panthers to their first winning season ever with a record of 14-6.

Cross country finished with its best season ever at 8-6, and baseball had its second winning season in a row, and narrowly missed repeating as champion of the Penn-Jersey Day School Division.

In the team's award's picnic, most valuable player awards in spring sports were given to Steve Bash, tennis; Carl Rosenberg, baseball; and Andy Houston, lacrosse. Captains chosen next year include Buzz Woodworth, tennis, Mark Ellsworth and Duncan Martin, baseball; and Peter Moore and Dave Barach, lacrosse.

$10 MILLION PLAN SET

By Johnson Foundation. The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation has announced a four-year $10 million student-aid program to increase the number of future doctors likely to enter practice in medically underserved areas.

Under the program, all the nation's 108 schools of medicine and 7 schools of osteopathy will receive four-year grants for use as scholarship and loan awards to women students, students from rural backgrounds, and those from the country's black, Indian, Mexican-American, and U. S.

Robert L. Weiss

mainland Puerto Rican populations.

Dr. David E. Rogers, President of the Foundation, said that the plan to focus the grants on these groups of students was based on two main considerations:

Evidence indicating that student physicians with such background characteristics are the most likely to choose practice locations in underserved areas upon completion of their professional training.

The decision by the Foundation to concentrate on the improvement of access to personal health services as one of its principal goals.

The student-aid grants program is the Foundation's first important effort in its transition to a major national philanthropy in health.

The Foundation was established in 1936 by the late General Robert Wood Johnson, who died in 1968, leaving the Foundation the bulk of his estate. This bequest was received by the Foundation in 1971, bringing its year-end assets to approximately $1.2 billion — and marking its change from a local institution to a national health foundation.

The Foundation's program of student-aid grants is intended to help offset the extreme shortage of physicians in rural areas and inner-city communities, and is thus directly related to the Foundation's goal of improving access to medical care in American society.

SPRING LUNCHEON SET

By YMCA Newcomers Club. A spring luncheon at the Nassau Club Tuesday will end the season for YMCA Newcomers. Elizabeth McCohen, is Newcomers Hospitality Chairman and is in charge of arrangements for the luncheon.

George Koukoulis, a student of classical guitar at Westminster Choir College, will entertain the women with assorted pieces for the guitar. The event will begin at 11:30 with cocktails, followed by lunch at 12:30.

THEFT-GUARD LAUNCHED

To Deter Crime. Last year in New Jersey, the average loss suffered by each breaking and entering victim was $417; the average loss for each larceny victim, $182. Together the losses from both ran into the hundreds of millions.

"Don't you think it's about time we did something as a deterrent?" asked Township Chief Frederick Porter. The police here, backed by the sponsorship of Princeton insurance agencies, are doing just that.

Starting this week in the Township, Borough and West Windsor, Project Theft-Guard will offer the homeowner a chance to fight back and increase his chances of recovering items that may be stolen from his home.

Under the project, the police will lend those who are interested a small, pencil-shaped, carbon-tipped engraver tool, plus a listing sheet. The homeowner will engrave his driver's license number in a prominent place on articles favored most by thieves: TV sets, stereos, recorders, cameras, radios, guns, adding machines, binoculars and so on. On the sheet he will mark down the item; make, model, size and color; mfg. serial number; and where it was marked.

Upon returning sheet to police, he will receive a pair of decals for the front and rear door which state that all the have been engraved so that police can readily identify them.

The supply of engraving tools is limited, Chief Porter warned, and would be issued on a first-come, first-served basis. They will be loaned free for a period of three days. After that, there will be a fee of $3 for every overdue day. A waiting list will be compiled for those unable to obtain an engraver when they apply.

Chief Porter recommended that persons have photostat copies made of the list they turn into police and place one in a safety deposit box and another copy in a safe place at home. If one does not have a driver's license the number of another member of the family should be used, or that of a friend.

NEW CHAPTER PLANNED

By Sierra Club. One of the most influential national conservation groups, the Sierra Club, is setting up a new chapter in New Jersey so that it can work more effectively to save the remaining natural environment in this most urban state.

The formation of the New Jersey Chapter of the Sierra Club was announced today by Walter Wells of Summit and Stockton Gaines of Trenton, who are, respectively, chairmen of the North and South Jersey groups of the club.

The two groups, which will continue to exist, were authorized to unite into a separate chapter at the most recent meeting of the club's national board of directors in San Francisco. They were previously part of the Atlantic Chapter, which covers a broad section of the Eastern seaboard.

There will also be a tour of the grounds, and a "bring-your-own" picnic. To draw attention to the environmental

Obituaries

Dr. Bayard Dodge, for a quarter-century President of the American University of Beirut, Lebanon, died May 30 at Princeton Medical Center after several months of increasing illness. Eighty-four years old, he lived at 19 Alexander Street.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Bliss Dodge; two daughters, Mrs. Randolph Guthrie, San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Johnson Garrett, Paris, France; a son, David S. Dodge, Beirut; his twin brother, Cleveland Dodge, and a sister, Mrs. Dumont Clarke, both residents of Riverdale, N.Y.; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held in the Princeton University Chapel this Thursday. A private funeral service was held at the convenience of the family.

Dr. and Mrs. Dodge retired to Princeton after their 35 years at the American University of Beirut. He had joined the staff of the American University in 1913 and had served as its President from 1923 until 1948.

Served U.S. in Cairo. After their return to the United States, he was Visiting Professor at Columbia University, 1949-1954, and a Lecturer in Princeton's Near East Program, 1952-55. His deep love for the Near East carried him back to Cairo, Egypt, in 1955-56 as Regional Cultural Affairs Officer in the U.S. Information Service and then three years, 1956-59, as Visiting Professor at the American University of Cairo.

are held in the small auditorium throughout the summer.

Rev. Bruce M. Hucker of New Zealand, a graduate student at Princeton Seminary, will lead the 10 a.m. service on Sunday in Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane. The pastor, Rev. Kenneth S. Dannenhouer, is attending the Central Atlantic Conference of the United Church of Christ in Baltimore.

Assistance is needed at the Hospital Fete cake booth this Saturday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., according to Mrs. Robert Simpson of the Princeton Methodist Church W.S.C.S. Teens and adults are invited to call her at 921-7428 after 4 p.m. to schedule a work commitment. Donations of cakes will also be welcomed.

Students from overseas attending Princeton University and Princeton Theological Seminary, friends recalled, "always found a home in the Dodge's Alexander Street house. His interest in the Princeton YMCA was abiding and only recently the Y's new gymnasium, honoring the Dodge Brothers, Bayard and Cleveland, was dedicated."

Dr. Dodge, a member of the Princeton Class of 1909, who also earned degrees at Union Theological Seminary (B.D., 1913) and Columbia (M.A. 1913) held honorary degrees from Princeton, Yale University, Occidental College and the American University of Beirut. He had also received high decorations from the governments of Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, Iran, Poland, France, Greece and Great Britain including an honorary O.B.E. from Great Britain.

In 1960 Dr. Dodge became the fourth recipient of Princeton's Woodrow Wilson Award, presented annually since 1957 to the alumnus best exemplifying "Princeton in the Nation's Service," an expression coined by Woodrow Wilson as a teacher at Princeton and denoting service to education and public affairs no less than service in government posts.

Dr. Dodge, in receiving one of the highest honors Princeton can confer upon an alumnus, was cited in these terms by Princeton President Robert F. Goheen:

"Elected president of the University in 1923, he met the challenge of rapidly changing conditions with courage, foresight, and diplomacy. Maintaining cordial relations with many governments with which he had to deal and for whom he became a trusted adviser, he greatly expanded the influence of the University throughout the Near East and made it one of the most important links between the East and West.

"He regarded the University as a laboratory in international understanding and emphasized, by precept and example, the ideal of service to others. Under his leadership, the University prepared thousands of graduates for important service in helping to shape the destinies of the Near East.

"At his retirement as President of the University in 1948 he was said to be 'the most universally trusted representative of Western Civilization in the Near East' and was adjudged to have 'done more than any other single American to win and to keep good will for the United States' in that part of the world."

A 'Long View' Is Needed, Dr. Goheen Advises

"Your generation, in a measure exceeding most of mine, has an awareness of, indeed a passionate concern for, some of the pressing problems of the here and now," President Robert F. Goheen said Sunday to Princeton's seniors at his final baccalaureate address.

Speaking in University chapel on the 810 member graduating class, he advised "the combining of humanitarian empathy with much tough-mindedness, much sophisticated knowledge, and a long view."

Dr. Goheen said that even in past eras regarded as serene, "there was widespread uncertainty, widespread indifference, deep-set violence, much fear, frequent divergence and conflict in points of view."

"The values of the human mind and spirit have never been sure, and when they have been meaningfully affirmed and advanced, it has been by devoted, hard-thinking, hard-working men and women."

He cited "jingoism and no little arrogance" as strong contributors to the nation's involvement in Indo-China, "where we are perhaps finally learning the bitter results of collective pride and of actions taken in ignorance of the history, culture and aspirations of the peoples of a far-off land."

He emphasized the need for humility, tolerance and fair-dealing in a "flawed world." Drawing upon the comments of philosopher Jacques Maritain, he quoted a passage on human understanding which emphasized that tolerance is only achieved when a man, firmly convinced of a truth, at the same time recognizes the right of others to deny this truth because they seek truth in their own way.

Mark Twain Recalled. "I recall Mark Twain's defense of the Devil on the grounds that anyone exerting such influence on so large a proportion of the human race must have considerable executive ability."

"Yet I distrust all devil theories and would argue that men generate most of the evil mankind experiences. Moreover, it seems to me clear that such betterment of the human lot as has been achieved over the centuries has come about not only through the inspiration of prophets and courageous leaders, but also through the unsung labor of many anonymous people working against overwhelming odds."

Dr. Goheen advised the graduates to "strip down wishful imaginings," to mesh individual efforts with other interested and concerned parties and to be realistically aware of the possible traps of apparent good works. "Witness the dreadful fiasco of so much recent low-income urban development housing."

He continued, "Your experience in the University can help you in this effort, and for this reason especially, I submit, we should be thankful that universities exist. Imperfect they are. Liable to criticism they often may be. Nevertheless, this University and others in our land are continually trying to extend the range and precision of human understanding, and they are continually trying to help us make contact with the deepest resources of human wisdom as a basis for action."

He concluded with the words of one of Princeton's scholars, the late Charles Osmond: "May your lives be marked by an affectionate concern, incorrigible and dominant, for your fellow man."

LIVE IN A WATER GARDEN

It was a wonderful spot to build a house in the mid-19th century: a hillside well back from the road at the edge of the deep, cool woods and just at the point where an ever-flowing stream springs crystal clear from the depths. To its 20th century owner, the site presented an opportunity to develop a garden of delights without parallel in our experience. From the lofty, glass walled garden room with its brick hearth and hand-hewn beams and from the adjoining brick terrace, the effect is stunning: water seems to bubble and dance from everywhere artfully channeled from the pond above the house through the rocks and plantings to the stone walled swimming pool below. If you can tear yourself away, you'll find perfection throughout the main house with its el-shaped living-dining room, tiny study, kitchen, 3 bedrooms and 1½ baths. Across the upper garden a brand new tenant house awaits older children, guests, help or whatever. Here are, living room, dining room, modern kitchen, 4 bedrooms and 2 baths arranged to suit so many purposes. The garage will accommodate 3 cars and a tractor. On over 10 acres near Wall Street commuting and completely unique at $178,500.

YES, WE HAVE SEVERAL RENTALS

Ranging from $335 to $650 per month in price and from a pair of sleek new Nassau Street apartments to an historic country place on 12 acres with a pond. Others include two smaller country houses both within ten minutes of Nassau Street. Call us for details.

LIVE IN A BARN AND LIKE IT. 150 years ago the Amish people built this huge born. Now a modern master craftsman is remodelling it in excellent taste. The massive pegged beams remain. You'll have a feeling of the spaciousness of a Vermont ski lodge in this 22x32 living room with center fireplace. There's a modern eat-in kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, a 26x30 rec. room with original stone walls. A two car attached garage is being added and the exterior is rough cedar siding. It'll make a beautiful country estate at $89,000. Extras ore easy maintenance and plenty of room to add a swimming pool.

WANT PEOPLE TO LOOK UP TO YOU? Everyone who drives by stores up at this unusual house. It's high on a heavily wooded hillside. It enjoys a commanding view of woods and valley. It's built of stone and has a marble and redwood interior with three stone fireplaces. There is much glass area so well oriented that the sun provides winter warmth yet the trees prevent undue summer heat. It's offered in on unfinished stote in the low 80's. Phone for details.

This is a 12 acre estate just West of Princeton. The masonry house, somewhat Spanish in style, has 10 rooms, including 5 bedrooms plus a dressing room, 5 baths and 7 fireplaces. There is a tennis court, a 4 car garage with an adjoining apartment for servants or in-laws, outbuildings for gardening and small scale farming purposes, a dog run and a fenced play-yard. There is flagstone and brick terracing surrounding much of the house. Those are the simple facts of this lovely, lovely property. In all our years of trying to paint verbal pictures of real estate, we have never found one this difficult to do justice to; and our talented artist had the same problem. The house is so beautifully planned and planted that it seems to have grown out of the ground. French doors and low-set windows everywhere make the outdoors not only accessible, but very much a part of the house. The woodwork is elegant; the mantels, stunning. The kitchen-pantry-breakfast room with its brick fireplace/grill, imported tile, huge copper hood and bay window, is a masterpiece. As for the grounds — from small, almost secret garden spots, through natural woodland areas, to formal landscaping with rare botanical species and trees of almost every kind, it is a virtual Garden of Eden! Offered at $250,000
